The Cram Family and families which joined

My mother, Geraldine Cram, was always very proud of her ancestors' contribution to the development of Canada. The Cram family were early to arrive to Canada and were of the founding three families of what today is Carleton Place (near Ottawa). Peter and Janet Cram's family came to Canada and they did so in two groups leaving Comrie, Scotland forever. The eldest son, John, was the first to voyage and he led the way for his father Peter and siblings two years later.

This book is dedicated to my mother's pride of her family and the sense of belonging that she offered as a result of this .

Comrie is in Perthshire, Scotland. Comrie is a small town in the Scottish Highland, near Lock Earn which is in Lock Lomand & the Trossachs National Park. There is a small town near Comrie named St Fillan (like the Cemetery outside Carleton Place). Also near by is the town of Monzie which is where many of the Crams were Christened.

To Canada : History: A comment on the overall movement of Scottish settlers in Lanark, County, Ontario

"A Pioneer History of the County of Lanark" reports: "At the close of the war (1812-1814), the British government was faced with two major problems, unemployment and industrial depression at home and an uneasy peace with the Americans abroad. Upper Canada was still vulnerable to invasion and it was thought the interior should be settled as a strong line of defense against further hostilities.

An immigration scheme was put into effect to settle the great wilderness north and west of the Rideau River, which flowed into the Ottawa.

The land, which was purchased, from the Chippewa and Mississauga tribes included the present townships of Bathurst, Drummond, Beckwith and Goulbourn. It was part of the Precambrian Shield, oldest rock in the world and only some of it was fit for agriculture. The remainder grew timber and much of it was swamp and rocky hillock."

To obtain the necessary settlers, the British Government offered special incentives to both the discharged soldier settlers and to the non-military groups. Besides free or low cost transportation, each head of family received an axe, shovel, hoe, scythe, knife, hammer, saw, kettle, nails, putty, twelve panes of glass, two files and a sharpening stone. Each man was allotted one hundred acres of land, which had to be proved up. (Proved up = cleared and made inhabitable).

The end of the war found a large force of British troops already in the country and these were to form the bulwark for the planned new settlements.

A large number of the officers and men of the 99th and 100th regiments were discharged and given land grants and other help as mentioned and thereafter became the nucleus of the Military Settlements of Perth and Richmond. The members of the old 100th regiment were directed to the Perth area while those of the 99th were settled in the newly established military district of Richmond. All told, more than 400 officers and men received such grants.

As mentioned, it had been recommended and approved that a new military settlement be established somewhere between Perth and Ottawa. A site was selected on what is now known as the Jock River and given the name Richmond in honor of the Duke of Richmond who was arriving in Canada to take over as governor-general. While the discharged soldiers of the 99th were waiting at Lachine, Quebec, for the opening up of a road to Richmond and completion of the military settlement, other events were taking place.

A party of 300 Scottish farmers, under the direction of John Robertson of Breadalbane, Scotland, arrived in Canada from Perthshire, desiring to settle in the Beckwith-Goulbourn area. These independent immigrants had made their own arrangements for emigration with the Earl of Bathurst. They paid their own passage to Quebec and were to be conveyed thereafter to their land at the expense of the government. After landing at Quebec City they were brought down river to Lachine and up to Bellows Point on the Ottawa River, at the foot of Chaudiere Falls. It was at this location, now part of Ottawa, where the families remained while the menfolk blazed a trail through the woods. During these weeks it is a matter of record that these settlers suffered much hardship through sickness, fire and loss of luggage. Eventually, however, a trail was cleared to enable them to trudge through the woods carrying their belongings.

Most of those arriving were from Loch Earn and Loch Tay and other neighboring parishes. Each head of family deposited ten pounds as security and the terms of their arrangement required the Colonial Office to provide land grants of 100 acres to each member or family head. Most of the eastern section of Beckwith, known as the "Derry", so-called after a similar spot in Scotland, was largely settled by this group of immigrants. Others took up land in an area near the Township of Montague, which is known as "The Cuckoo's Nest". Lying between the fifth and sixth concessions in Beckwith Township and on the western fringes of Goulbourn Township (which was still part of Beckwith and not organized into a separate township until after the arrival of these settlers).

While Perthshire settlers had battled their way through the woods from Ottawa River landing to the land of their choice, the discharged soldiers, due to settle at Richmond, were still waiting at Lachine for the completion of the road and military settlement base.

Eventually, the first of the discharged soldiers began to arrive in August and by November, Colonel Cockburn was able to report to the Duke of Richmond that, "a very good road" had now been built from the Bay below the Chaudiere Falls to the village now known as Richmond. By November, four hundred families had been located at this new settlement.

To Canada...

Notes from William H Cram, 1987

All of Peter and Janet Crams' the family was born at Milton, Perthshire, Scotland, and were forced to move into the nearby town of Comrie about 1815 by Lord Balgray and to survive by weaving. John the oldest son emigrated to Canada in 1818, and the rest of the family followed in 1820. The father and 6 sons homesteaded on adjacent 100 acres farms in the Beckwith Township of Lanark, 3 or 4 miles from Carleton Place in Ontario."

W H Cram's work also noted that the father of Peter Cram was Thomas Cram who was born 1745 and died 1826. And that Thomas Cram was a miller a Milton hamlet on the Earn River, east of Comrie in Perthshire, Scotland. This work further showed Thomas had another son named John Cram. I have used Ian Whites research and placed Duncan Cram born January 29, 1738 as the father of Peter Cram, I have done so as this is the most consistent parent as found by multiple researchers.

John Cram's crossing

In the Dictionary of Scottish migrants to Canada before Confederation, by Donald Whyte of Ontario Genealogical Society Toronto 1986 there is a note that John Cram from Comrie par, PER (Perthshire, Scotland) To Montreal QUE on the Curlew (name of boat) ex Greenock (port of departure) 21 July 1818 settled probably Beckwith Twp., Lanark Co, Ontario. Wife Isabella with him and daughter Mary age 3. (source cited as Passenger List).

More from W H Cram

“ After his son John had made a voyage to Canada in 1818 and located a suitable site for his family's homestead, Peter, Janet and family ventured to Canada in 1820 (date given on headstone) and made the family a home in Morphy's Falls (in 1830 this town changed its' name and is now known as Carleton Place). They crossed on a ship named Ben Lomond (per Howard Brown 1972). “

Ian White`s work adds

“ Crossed to Canada from Greenock on the ship Ben Lomond in 1820. It arrived in the port of Québec on July 21, 1820 after a journey of seven weeks, under master W. Rettry, with 218 settlers. .... From Québec they boarded the ship `Malsham` on July 22, 1820 for the trip to Montréal which cost 3 pounds in fair for poor Peter, his wife and eight children. It is believed, but not confirmed, that they then traveled up the St. Lawrence River to Prescott, then over uncharted land to what became Beckwith Township where they joined their son John, who had journeyed to this location years earlier with his wife and daughter. Peter was accompanied by his wife Janet Key and their sons James, Duncan, Peter, David and Daniel, and daughters Catherine, Janet and Margaret.”

The Archives of Canada show the land being assigned 31 January 1824, “return of persons located by the quartermaster Gen.'s Department in the Bathurst district who have performed the return of settlement and are entitled to that petition grants for the - allotments opposite their respective names”. Peter is placed in the West half of Lot 21, equaling 100 acres. The Archives of Canada also show the land assignment dated 9 July 1824 for E. half of the Lot 19 100 acres.

Back to John Cram (the first to come to Canada) and his settlement in Beckwith Co.

From book "Founded on a Rock", located at Carleton Place Library. Page 9

"John Cram was one of some three hundred or more emigrants from Perthshire who in 1818 became the first large group of settlers of the township of which Carleton Place, for purposes of municipal administration, long remained a principal part. In recollections of that time, as he told them when he was over eighty years of age, he described what may be the first time human foot was set on the site of this town other than by its Indians and with the possible exception of government surveyors who were competing in that period the original survey of the township."

"A few years ago the late John Cram told me an anecdote about the first settlement of Beckwith. He said that he and a neighbour settler were chopping together one day, shortly after they located their claims. It was a fine calm afternoon. While sitting resting upon a fallen tree they thought they detected the sound of rushing water. They had never heard of any river near, as they came on the land by Bytown, so they agreed to an exploring expedition."

"When morning came they met at the clearance and followed the sound. The bush was very dense and the fallen trees many, and they had often to stop to catch the sound. But it grew louder and louder. After infinite toil they struck the river just where McArthur's store now stands (corner of Mill and Bridge streets). When the two white men emerged from the bush a tall Indian woman rose from the river bank. Plunging into the stream, she scrambled across to the other side, where there was an Indian camp. This was their first sight of the Mississippi river and falls." "Were you much troubled with the Indians?, I once asked him. "Very little. There was a beaver meadow close to our place where they came to trap. Once in a while one of them would walk silently into the house, light his pipe, and as silently walk away. They were very harmless."

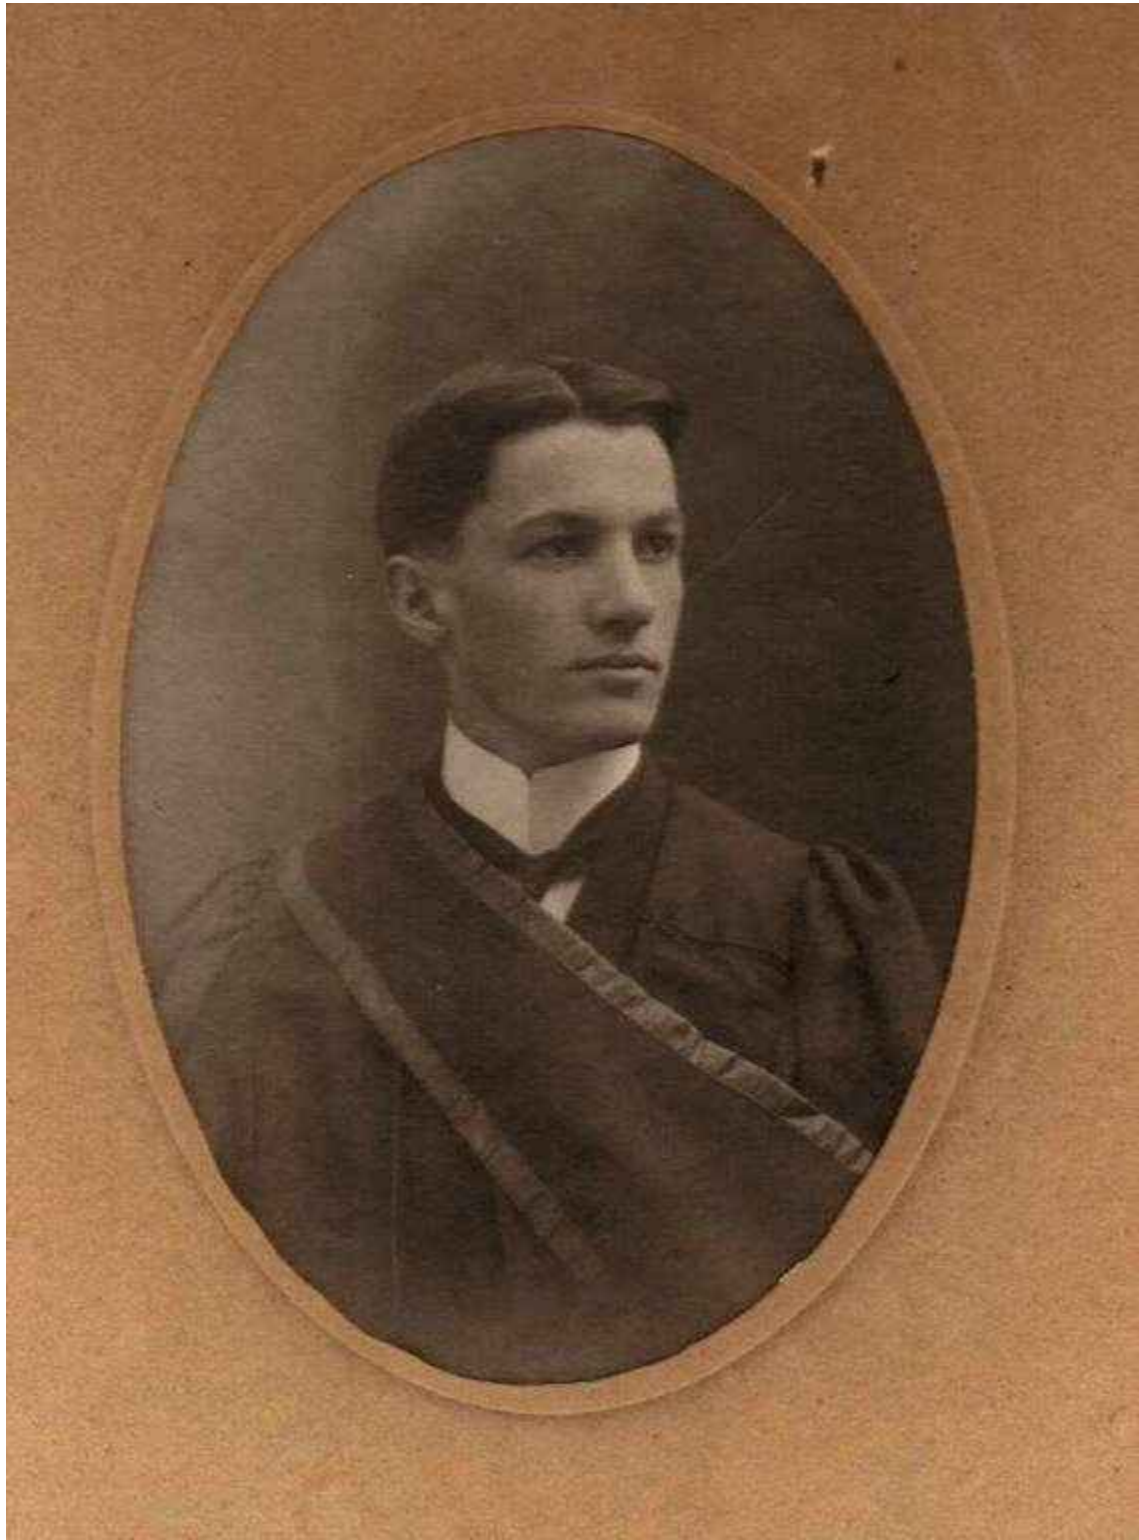

And so by the early 1820's the Cram family had 12 or 13 people living in what is now Carleton Place and by the 1830's occupied over 500 acres and began the process of clearing the land and establishing prosperous farms. Over the years that followed some Crams' followed the family historical occupation and set up mills for carding wool while most managed their farms and large families. We can be proud of the fact that many offered their time and talent to the local government in positions of Reeve and Majors.

My direct line falls from David Cram who married Annie Nicholes in 1837 who went on to have eleven children. One of these children was David Cram Junior who married Elizabeth Houston, a union that brought five children including my Great Grandfather Walden Scott Cram who is the only (immediate) family member to leave Carleton Place. Walden attended university at Queens in Kingston and somehow met his wife to be, Olive Ayearst Norsworthy who was attending Victoria University (University of Toronto). Walden and Olive headed west and settled in Saskatchewan and had five boys (the first birth were twins who died at birth) who all went on to University and became doctors, engineers and professionals.

It is the union of Olive and Walden that brings the Norsworthy family into the tree.

Norsworthy

The Norsworthy's hail from Devon and the names Norsworthy and Nosworthy there are very common, there are hundred of these family members in the early 1800's and tracking the family has been a lifelong project of Anne Brooks who has published her work on a website rich with history and family details.

John Nosworthy (does not have the R) and his wife Mary Jane Counter came to Canada around 1852 and settled near London, Ontario in North Dorchester Township, Middlesex County. In the 1861 census he has a farm located at Concession 2, Lot 17 and is next to Richard Counter (the brother of his wife, Mary Jane Counter).

The agricultural census show their farms as being valued at $600 and $750 respectively. Also in the full 1861 census, George Counter (father of Mary Jane and Richard) is living with John Nosworthy in Thames Centre township.

John's four eldest children are not living with him in the 1861 census and as of today I have not found Charles until 1871 when we find him in Lambton County Bosanquet, Ontario with the occupation of Carpenter which aligns with his occupation as noted in the British 1851 census. The 1851 British census is also interesting as Charles is listed as a servant (for relationship) in the household of George Caunter who is a carpenter. We can assume that George taught Charles the trade of being a carpenter and there may be indenture papers to support this somewhere but what is clear is that Charles was living with the family and they all moved to Canada together.

By 1877 Charles Norsworthy had moved to St Thomas, which is near to these other noted locations, and with the financial support of business partners created a Foundry, C. Norsworthy Company Ltd.

Notes from the a booklet titled: Ontario's Threshing Machine Industry, published by School of Engineering, University of Guelph.

“Charles Norsworthy was born in Whidcombe (sic) , Devonshire, England, and immigrated to Canada as a young man. He settled in London, Ontario where he learned the machinist trade. The next mention of Charles Norsworthy is in the Lampton County Centennial History which records him in the 1850s, the thriving new community of Arkona processes nearly 20 manufacturing concerns in addition to stores, hotels and churches. Outstanding among the industries was the foundry of Champion and Norsworthy, manufacturing reaping, mowing and threshing machines, plows, cultivators, mill gearing and castings for all kinds.

Then we find the History for Elgin County recording that in the year 1871 C Norsworthy & Co. purchased the Red Foundry which produced farm implements located at the corner of Center and Metcalfe Street in St. Thomas, which they have enlarged and modernized with new and superior machinery and continued to make farm implements. The line was gradually dropped and the company drifted into the manufacturer of engines and boilers about 1880. It was further stated that Charles Norsworthy is a practical machinist and has followed his occupation as an iron worker for the past 25 years. John C. Lindop, the other member of the firm, is a native of St. Thomas and well known as a faithful and capable businessman. The firm carries on with the manufacturing of agricultural machinery and a wide variety of castings and articles badly needed by the community in those times.

Just when they began the manufacture of portable steam engines is not recorded but advertisements in the 1880s mention them and the McDonald Manufacturing Company of Stratford picture one in their catalogs stating that they were the best on the market and would be supplied along with their own "Standard" or "Decker" thresher to anyone desiring a complete threshing outfit. These Norsworthy portable engines were all of the return flue type with the smokestack and cylinder at the rear of the boiler. For the Western market at the firm built a patented strong burner in which the straw used for fuel was burned in an attached a separate furnace allowing only the hot gases to pass through the fire box and tubes of the boiler.

Charles Norsworthy died in the early 1890s (note from Christopher Ashby: he died in the late 1890's) . His partner carried on for a few years then the business was sold to a new firm headed by Messrs Spitsig, Barbrick and Hauck. The new company were so busy with the manufacture of Stowe's that they never started into the engine business and though well liked old Norsworthy portable threshing engines soon became only a memory to those who had owned or operated one of them.”

In another book: St Thomas And Its Men of Affairs, published 1924, Page 74:

“The old Red Foundry on the corner of Center and Metcalfe streets, has been a landmark for a century. It was flourishing when St. Thomas was a village; it has grown one with the growth of the city, and is now an establishment that any city might point to with pride. It was founded by John and William Stacey in 1852, and they had for partners Hiram Hunt and William B. Richardson. A disagreement among the members in a few years about the management caused a dissolution and the business was closed out. The firm well it lasted just a large business in stoves, tinware, plows and farm implements. At a later date Joseph Stacey and James Tucker did a large repair business for a short period, and others conducted it with varying results to the year 1871, 43 years ago, when the president firm of C. Norsworthy & Co. acquired the business . From that time onward the plant has been enlarged at short periods, and the business extended and tell the firm and its output are familiar to the people of the Dominion, from Halifax in the east to Vancouver in the West. The firm made farm implements at first, that this line was dropped, and it gradually drifted into making various lines of machinery, such as engines and boilers, hand lathes, water works supplies, shafts and pulleys, automatic stokers. They also do heavy forging and make patterns. They do a large business in manufacturing machinery from chat rooms furnished, and from blueprints. The plant has been greatly enlarged and improved during the past year, and ranks as one of the best machine shops in the country. The firm employs 35 men and pays upwards of $13,000 a year in wages. The business has been profitable, and its outlook for the future is bright. The Messrs Norsworthy are "to the manner born" having been brought up in the business and thoroughly instructed in all its branches, and at the death of the elder Norsworthy, their father, a few years ago, took his place in the firm. The latest addition to the plant is a large department for the manufacture of furnaces."

In the book: Vignettes of Early St Thomas (Ref #37131b063 052 94 6) by W C Miller:

"...in reference to the foundry...acquired in 1871 by C. Norsworthy under whose guidance it was continued on for many years. One of its products -- home furnaces -- became widely known and the furnace developed by the Norsworthy firm, the Howard, made such a name for itself that its name proved to be a valuable business asset and the Howard Furnace is still made by a Toronto plant. Norsworthy had a son, Howard, and the father gave his name to his best known product. The Norsworthy firm received manufacturing rights to a U.S. Fire Hydrant and most of the presently existing hydrants on the St Thomas system were made by this plant, under the original name -- the Ludlow Hydrant."

Before moving away from Charles' father, John Nosworthy, it is worth noting that John and Mary Jane had eleven children who all grew to senior years and had families, some of who are still in the St Thomas area. One of John's other sons was James Counter Norsworthy married Mary Jane Cutherbert. James was a banker and became quite wealthy, perhaps in part due to the wealth in his wife family. They had a very large home in St Thomas and to this day there are tales of a ghost in the house and other great tales of intrigue. James and Mary Jane had four sons and a daughter and all four sons were members of the famous Blackwatch Regiment. One of the sons died in the first World War and the others all served. These children all attended private schools and one, Stanley Norsworthy, married into the family of the Sir Hugh William Hoyles, Prime Minister of Newfoundland.

To allow us to move forward to my immediate family we need to return to John Nosworthy's eldest son Charles Norsworthy, who in 1854, in Canada, married Emily McLauchlan and they had a family of nine children of whom prospered and with the exception of one daughter all lived full lives (Elizabeth dies at the age 39). The fourth child was John Welsey Norsworthy born 1860 in London, Ontario married Elizabeth Bertha Ayearst.

Ayearst

Elizabeth's grandparents came to Canada in the early 1800's. Her great grandfather was Francis Ayerst who was born in Sandhurst, Kent, England in 1792. Francis married Margaret Webb on December 2 1789 in Maidstone, Kent, England. Francis Senior came to Canada and settled in Hollands Landing, Ontario (south of Barrie) and is found in 1833 records as a baker.

Francis Junior came to Canada with his wife Martha Avard and five children (all born in Kent). One of these five children was William Ayearst who was Elizabeth's father.

William Ayearst left Gwillimbury County and settled in Wellington County (just west of Gwillimbury) and married Elizabeth Bond in 1861.

In 1881 we find Elizabeth Ayearst in St. Thomas, Ontario, as a boarder in a house and she is listed as a school teacher explaining how Elizabeth her husband John Wesley Norsworthy.

I find this a wonderful potential link to the next generation as Elizabeth's daughter Olive Ayearst Norsworthy went on to University and that is likely where she met her husband to be: Walden Scott Cram. Walden was also a teacher and then a school superintendent. All the members of Walden's family and all those of Vanderburghs all gained university educations, higher education has always been celebrated in our family.

This brings us back to the beginning of this chapter with the Cram family.

And so we move to the other side of the tree for my mother, her mother: Florence Edythe Vanderburgh

Again this side of the family brings a rich history and have added to the development of Canada and are recognized in history as United Empire Loyalists.

The Vanderburgh family is believed to have come to what is now the state New York from South Holland. The furthest back researchers have been able to document was the birth of Lucas Dirchszen van der Burgh in circa 1620. Lucas and his wife Annetje came to New Amsterdam (present day Manhattan, New York, USA) and started a family of seven children including Dirch who was baptized on 13 Mar 1661 at the Dutch Church in New Amsterdam.

The Vanderburghs owned land, a tavern in lower Manhattan and were silversmiths. They lived in Manhattan and Poughkeepsie, New York and other settlements within the North East of the USA for four generations. When the war between the English and the new Americans broke out and families had to determine their loyalties, the Vanderburghs choose to side with the King of England and like thousands they suffered greatly for this choice and lost most of what they had. The United Empire Loyalist Society has documented the departure of Richard Vanderburgh (born 1797) and his wife Elizabeth Fulton and show that they left the USA to New Brunswick in 1783, where they settled for about 13 years. Then in 1800 they removed to Ontario where they were awarded land by the Crown in what is now Richmond Hill. To this day the family homestead stands having been restored and dedicated as an historical place of interest.

Elizabeth Fulton's father was also a United Empire Loyalist and was a Captain within the army and the fight for the King. On the UEL listing we see his military service to include: Pte, Governor Wentworth's Volunteers, 1777; Quarter master by 1781; commissioned Lieutenant, King's American Dragoons, 1781; undercover mission to recruit Loyalists in NJ, PA, and MD 1781; promoted to Captain 1781.

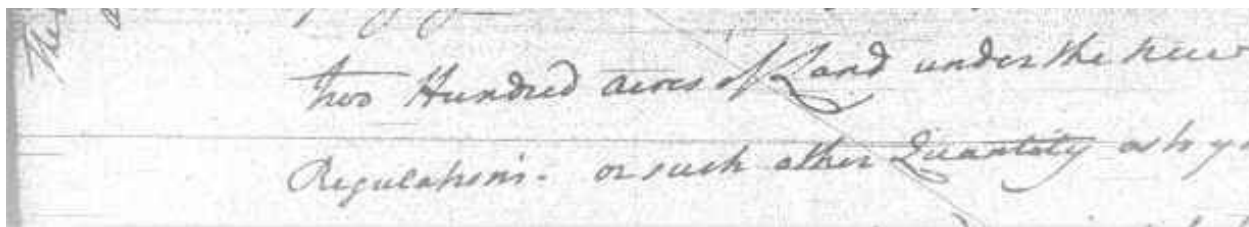

The family consists of a wife & three children (the last is female) & with him, another male, who appears to be a child of his.

In the book Early Days in Richmond Hill by Robert Stamp page 319: Lot 40 --1 -- Vaughan: in 1798 John McAuley was granted the patent, having received the 200 acres as a settler. The property changed owners rapidly, to David Laughlin in 1803, Stillwell Wilson in 1807, Julien LeBugle in 1808, and then to Peter Vanderburgh in 1815. In 1833 Richard C. Gapper acquired the whole 210 acres. The property was then divided east/west through various owners, but in 1848 and 1856, Edmonds Seager purchased the East and West parcels respectively, bringing the property under a single ownership again. The house at 9241 Bathurst was built by Seagers to house his hired man, and is currently but coincidentally owned by a direct descendent of Seager.

Now back to Richard Vanderburgh was married at St James Cathedral in Toronto, a church which stands today and is the center of the Anglican faith in Canada. On October 17 1816 he married Elizabeth Fulton. They lived on the land noted above in Richmond Hill and raised a family with seven children. Elizabeth died in 1840 and Richard married Phoebe Vernon in 1846 and they had four more children. The youngest son of Richard and Elizabeth was John who was born in 1831, John married Jane Wright in 1862 and they had eight children.

John and Jane Vanderburgh moved to Innisfil, Ontario and established a large farm where they raised their family, some of whom are still in the region. The Innisfil graveyard has many members of this family and the families to whom they married. Of the eight children two were twin brothers George Edgerton Vanderburgh and James born in 1875.

George is the father to my grandmother and one of his daughters wrote the following as a memorial to her father:

In 1990 Evelyn's daughter Donna Douglas Hyde wrote Evelyn's memoirs of George Vanderburgh and her youth

George Vanderburgh was born a twin, taught school, teaching at Holly where he met mother [Jennie Campbell]. He wanted to become a doctor but finances weren't forthcoming and to further himself he went to business college at Collingwood. Following this he became a bookkeeper for a lumber company in Toronto. Here he had his first home built on 83 Brooklyn Avenue.

In the meantime mother took a dressmakers course in Toronto and made her own wedding dress. She and Dad were married in Holly Church where they were presented with a large family Bible. They honeymooned at Niagara Falls.

They lived in Toronto for nearly 5 years. Hearing the call to go West, he gave up his job, sold his home and went out to his sisters Jack and Florrie MacLeod in Grefell, Saskatchewan. Mother expecting Margaret took me and went up to her old home at Holly to wait until the baby arrived which was July.

Uncle Jack MacLeod's father lived at Neudorf . Dad opened an office where he did work of an actuary. Later he became municipal Sec. which he combined with his own business. After renting, dad bought a home, a six room cottage.

At one point Dad bought a half section of farmland at Southey, 90 miles away. It had no buildings and was unbroken. He hoped to make money by resale. We used to take annual trips by car to check on the progress. He spent money on breaking part of it, building graineries, seed, grain and finally a house. He rented it to neighbouring farmers, who cheated the grain rightfully his share, had graineries moved off his property by dishonest renters etc. all because of not being close enough to be able to check. He sold it but the new owners sold the grain and skipped the country to the States. Mother was still getting money from the farm when she first came to Sault Ste. Marie. Dad often said he should have let it go after the down payment of $500. He could have bought at Neudorf instead that was talked into it by her first cousin of Mother's Beebly by name.

Life at Neudorf was pleasant but quiet. We skated in the winter. Dad curled. Summers were spent at three excellent tennis courts, a very attractive club. We entertained outside clubs and were entertained in return. Dad was in excellent player but mother wasn't up to it. We used to exchange Sunday dinners with the Boyces. Mr. Boyce was the C. P. R. Station agent at Neudorf. Edythe was born there in 1914. Dad did much for the Red Cross during the war. We use to enjoy Sunday drives to the Qu'Appelle Valley with friends.

George married Jennie Willalma Campbell in 1905 and I this union brought the Campbell family to theVanderburgh line.

Campbell Family

Here we find the history of yet another very old Canadian family. The Campbells came to Canada about 1824 and settled in the Innisfil, Ontario area and again like the Vanderburgh family noted above have family members to this day in the region. Some records show that the Campbell men came to Canada by way of the USA and other notes are they came direct. To this date there are no official record to prove either route but we know they had land in Innisfil by the 1840's as children are noted as being born there, it is likely they were settled in the area in the 1830's.

From a letter dated July 1 1944, which I do not know the author but it is on onion paper like my Grandmother Edythe Cram always used. I suspect she typed it from something from a Campbell family member.

It reads: Campbell Clan

The Campbell Clan of Scotland held as their ancestral home the portion of the Highlands of Scotland lying on the west coast just north of Glasgow. There were recognized as one of the most powerful, aggressive and cunning of all the Scottish clansmen. Being separated from Ireland by only a narrow channel, it was natural that many Scotsmen would migrate there especially since it was the declared policy of successive rulers of Ireland to fill up the northern part with industrious Protestant settlers. Just when our ancestors migrated from Scotland to Ireland we have no record but we can well believe it would be in the 17th or 18th century. We have no record of the parents of those who came to Canada. Some suggested the Napoleonic Wars, that is after 1815, was a time of great hardship for the common people of the British Isles but more particularly for the Irish. Potatoes had become the one staple food for the poor people of Ireland so it was no wonder that some of the enterprising aggressive Campbells should look with eager eyes across the Atlantic for relief.

The first to venture forth was Robert, the oldest of the family, so far as we know, and was born about 1800. He came to Canada about 1824 from County Armagh to work digging the first Welland Canal. After a few years, the thrifty young Irishman had saved enough money to buy a farm near Bond Head (Ontario). In 1856, he married Amelia Long and together they raised a large family of five boys and five girls.

The second boy of the family to come to Canada was William, commonly known as Billy, born in 1801. There is some uncertainty about the date of his arrival in Canada and whether he was out here before the 1837 rebellion or not. Our information is that he did not come out until 1838 or 1840. He is said to have arrived in New York and straightway enquired of a New Yorker if he knew his brother Bob. "Bob who" was the reply. "Bob Campbell why he as a big farm of 200 acres up in Tecumseh Township" "Where's that ?" was the answer of the stranger. And thereupon Uncle Billy showed his disgust of the American by saying " Aw Shaw, you fellows know naething." Billy remained throughout his long life (he died in 1886) the wit of the family. Upon reaching his brother Bob's (and by the way, the three younger brothers and the three girls who came to this country all went straight to Bob's farm - he fathered them and fed them until they got started on their own. ) Billy located on the 14th of Tecumseh, and for a good many years a little church called "Campbell's Church" stood on the corner of the farm. He married Jane Thompson. The six sons born to them are as follows (see file)

The third boy of the family was James and there is no record of when he arrived. He was here during the 1837 rebellion for when Robert and Mathew went away to put down the rebellion, the women folk begged to have Jamie stay with them. A few years later he was killed at the Whiteside's barn raising and was buried in Middletown Cemetery between Bradford and Bond Head. He was never married.

The fourth and youngest of the four boys was Mathew. He was born about 1811 and came to Canada on or about 1835. He married Lovina Woods, daughter of Irish settlers and settled on the 16th of Tecumseh, about two miles west of Cookstown. He had eleven children (see file).

William Campbell, son of the above noted Matthew, was born 1801 married Mary Jane Thompson in Ireland where they started their family before emigration to Canada. In 1848 they had a son who was named after his mother : Thompson Campbell born 1848 in Cookstown, Innisfil Twp. Thompson farmed in Innisfil Township and in 1877 married Harriett Dyer in Holly, Ontario. Thompson and Harriett's farm was named Shady Grove and this was home to their three daughters and one son. One of the daughters was Jennie who married the above noted George Vanderburgh in 1905 in the same church her parents were married in Holly.

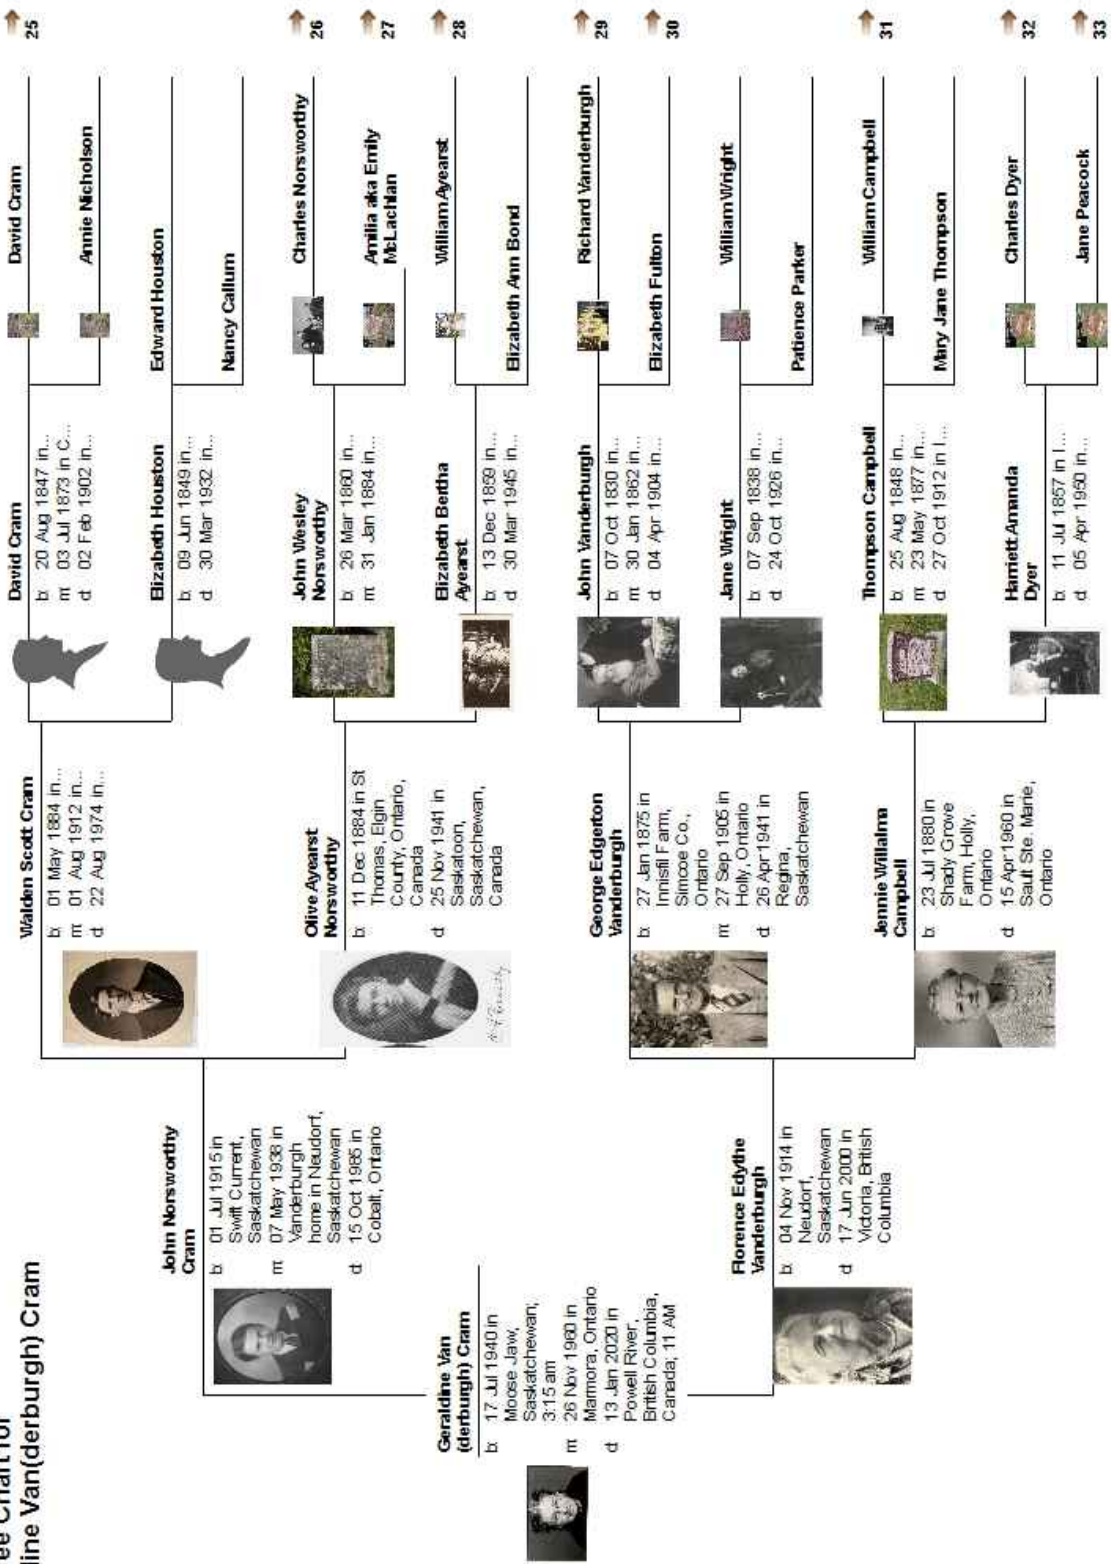

As a side note, and to help not allow us to become confused with who is where, while the Vanderburgh's first settled in Richmond Hill, George's family was in Innisfil, the same area as his wife to be, Jennie. How they met is lost to time but they could have known each other for years.

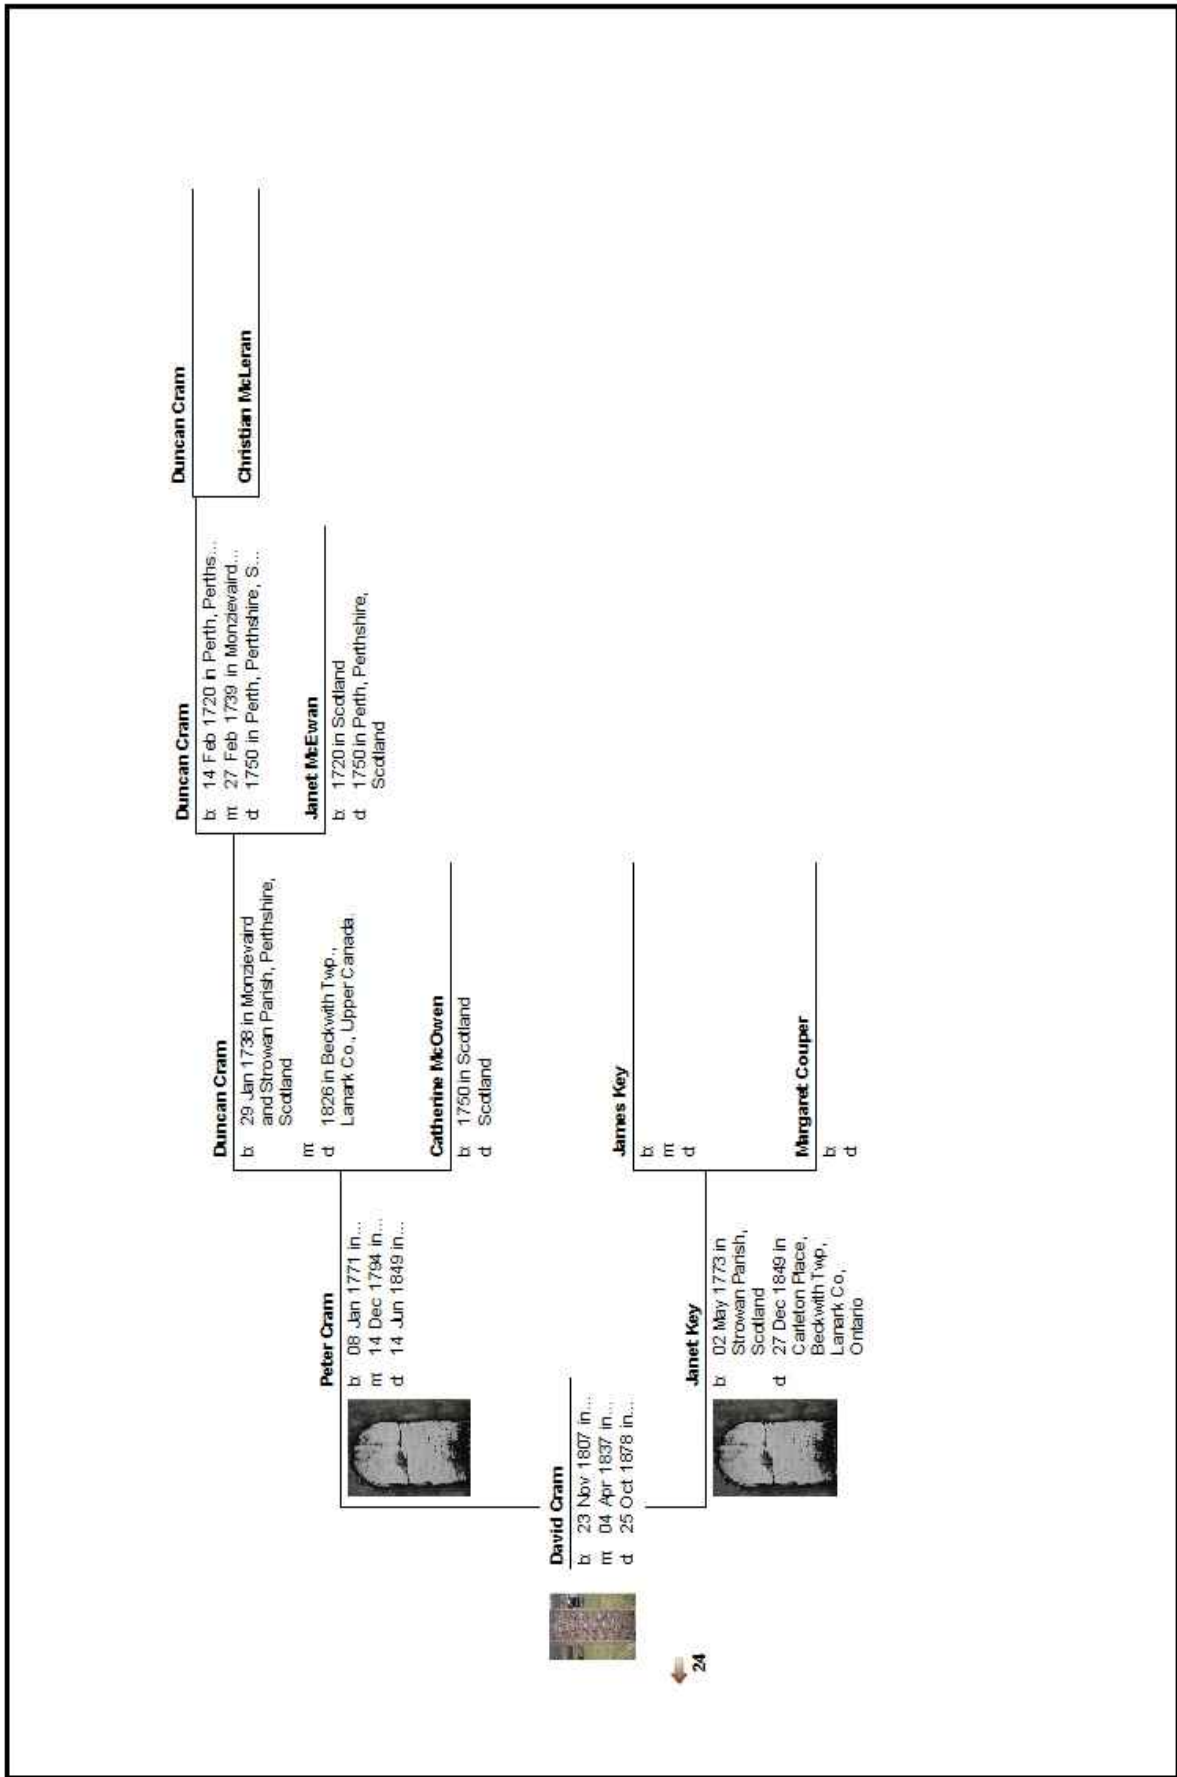

Jennie had moved to Toronto and is found in the 1901 census as a taitoress, note the designation is not dress maker. My grandmother (daughter to Jennie) always spoke of the fine work her mother did as a tailor and dressmaker. George and Jennie are shown in Toronto directories to live at 83 Brooklyn Street, Toronto in 1906 to 1910 which corresponds to George's obituary that state they moved to Saskatchewan in 1910. George was as teacher and also invested in real estate in Saskatchewan.

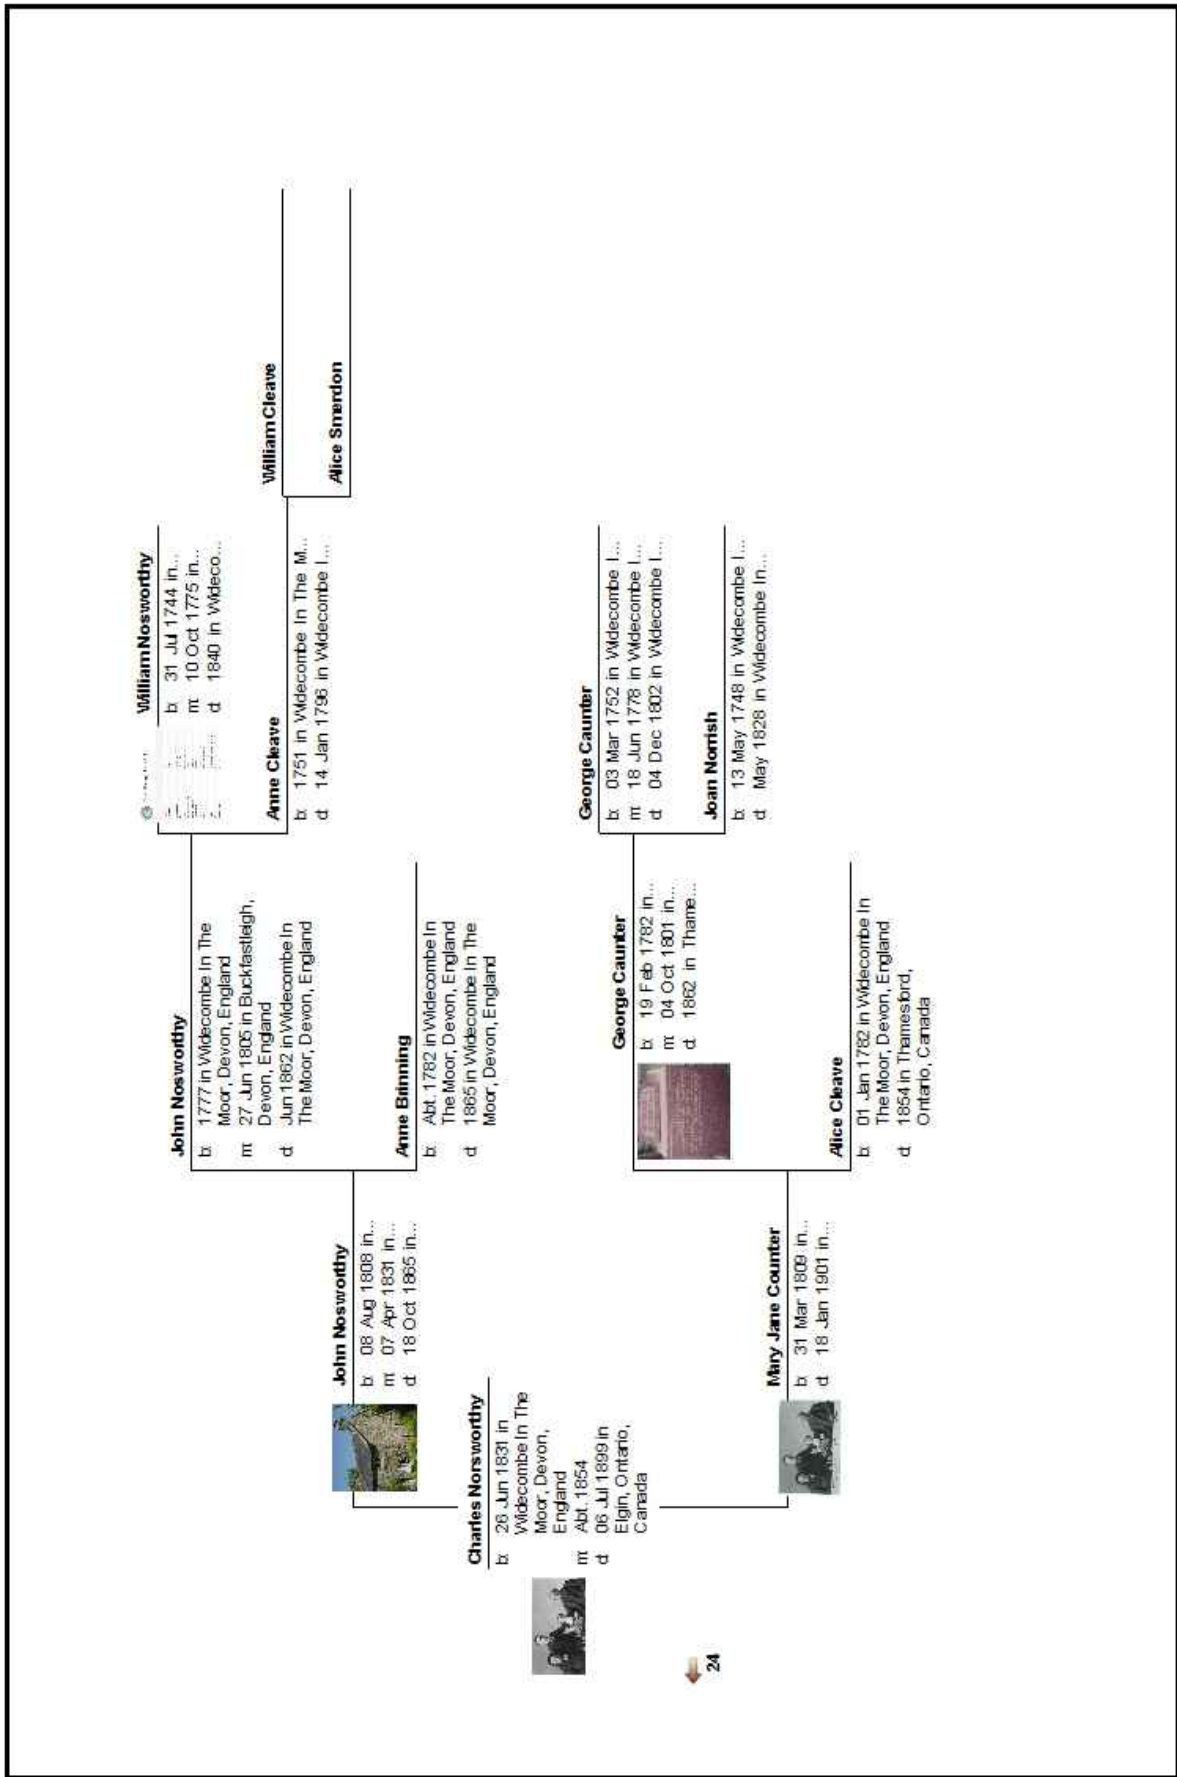

In Saskatchewan they settled in Neudorf where George first taught and then became the Secretary and Treasurer for the Township and held this role from 1915 to 1941. There is a street in Neudorf named after the Vanderburgh family.

In Neudorf they had three daughters all of who attended University and went on to live rich lives but did not stay in Saskatchewan. The youngest daughter was Florence Edythe Vanderburgh born Nov 4 1914, she went on to marry John Norsworthy Cram in 1938. From this marriage are five children including my mother Geraldine Van Cram who was born July 17 1940 and who passed January 13, 2020.

The Lynch Home in Deloro Village

A beautiful historic home in Deloro is on the market for sale in the Marmora Herald in 1962 for demolition. Doug and Eleanor Lynch had fallen in love with the place, and the prospect of seeing this beautiful residence demolished, led them to purchase it. They moved in on June 24, 1963.

The living area contains 3,000 sq. feet, has 11 rooms, three washrooms and hot water heating. In the basement, is a drilled well and a 1,600 gallon cistern. Engraved on the cement at the top of the inner southwest corner of the cistern is the date: November 21, 1891 J.E.P.S.

The grounds surrounding the house cover 1.5 acres, which must require many hours of grass cutting and flower bed maintenance, but is likely a labor of love on the part of Doug and Eleanor Lynch.

The early seen cement letter, "D E L O R O", which was placed there in 1898 at the southeast of the once popular lawn bowling green, stands for a way of life that is no longer possible in that community of approximately 200 people.

Tickets for the tour may be purchased at Hastings Handcrafts, or by calling 472-2380.

change to Deloro Smelting and Refining Company. During the time that Mr. & Mrs. Sidney Wright lived in the house, they added a large music room to the northeast corner of the original structure, and installed an alcove in that room to display his Grandfather's violin. Living quarters for a maid were also added at the southeast corner.

Mr. Wright was the first reeve of Deloro after it was incorporated in 1919, and remained reeve until 1942.

Other residents of the house have been: Mr. & Mrs. Ralph Walsh, Mr. & Mrs. Hal Bunnell, and Mr. & Mrs. John Cram.

80th Birthday at Jack's Farm (1994)

PSALM 23

The Lord is my shepherd,
 I shall not want.
 He maketh me to lie down
 in green pastures:
 He leadeth me beside the still waters.
 He restoreth my soul:
 He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.
 Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death,
 I will fear no evil:
 for thou art with me;
 thy rod and thy staff
 they comfort me.
 Thou preparest a table before me:
 in the presence of mine enemies;
 thou anointest my head with oil:
 my cup runneth over.
 Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me
 all the days of my life:
 and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

Peter Cram<sup>15</sup> lived in Lot 21, Con 11, Beckwith Twp., Lanark Co on 14 Jun 1828. He was employed as a weaver in the mill at Milton near Comrie, Scotland ( on the banks of Earn). He was buried in Cram Cemetery, Carleton Place, Ontario.

Notes for Peter Cram:

Notes from William H Cram 1987: All of the family was born (family of Peter and Janet) at Milton, forced to move into Comrie about 1815 by Lord Balgray and to survive by weaving. John the oldest son emigrated to Canada in 1818, and the rest of the family followed in 1820. The father and 6 sons homesteaded on adjacent 100 acres farms in the Beckwith Township of Lanark, 3 or 4 miles from Carleton Place in Ontario. W H Cram's work also noted that the father of Peter Cram was Thomas Cram born 1745 and died 1826 (Peter was son of Thomas Cram (1745-1826) a miller a Milton hamlet on the Earn River, east of Comrie in Perthshire, Scotland. This work also showed Thomas had another son named John Cram) . I have used Ian Whites research and placed Duncan Cram born January 29, 1738 as the father of Peter Cram, I have done so as this is consistent with all published works on ancestry.com.

After his son John had made a voyage to Canada in 1818 and located a suitable site for his family's homestead, Peter, Janet and family ventured to Canada in 1820 (date given on headstone) and made the family a home in Morphy's Falls (in 1830 this town changed its' name and is now known as Carleton Place). They crossed on a ship named Ben Lomond (per Howard Brown 1972).

In Ian White`s work we have: Crossed to Canada from Greenock on the ship Ben Lomond in 1820. It arrived in the port of Québec on July 21, 1820 after a journey of seven weeks, under master W. Rettry, with 218 settlers. The voyage was described as being `to Irvine, M'Naught & Co., sugar and hardware`. From Québec they boarded the ship `Malsham` on July 22, 1820 for the trip to Montréal which cost 3 pounds in fair for poor Peter, his wife and eight children. It is believed, but not confirmed, that they then traveled up the St. Lawrence River to Prescott, then over uncharted land to what became Beckwith Township where they joined their son John, who had journeyed to this location years earlier with his wife and daughter. Peter was accompanied by his wife Janet Key and their sons James, Duncan, Peter, David and Daniel, and daughters Catherine, Janet and Margaret.

In the land Registry office the date of the instruments for Crown grant to Peter Cram the senior is 14 June 1828, see attached. The Archives of Canada show the land being assigned 31 January 1824, return of persons located by the quartermaster Gen.'s Department in the Bathurst district who have performed the return of settlement and are entitled to that petition grants for the - allotments opposite their respective names (this is referring to a list which follows). Peter is placed in the West half if Lot 21, equaling 100 acres. The Archives of Canada also show the land assignment dated 9 July 1824 four E. half of the Lot 19 100 acres.

Notes for John Cram:

Family History states: John came to Canada from Scotland in 1818 his parents, brothers and sisters followed in approx. 1820. Opened a shop in Carleton Place, Ontario. The shop was John F Cram and Sons, Dealers of Domestic Wool. This shop is recorded as being established in 1855 which indicates that the shop was established by his brother James' son John F Cram.

In the Dictionary of Scottish migrants to Canada before Confederation, by Donald Whyte of Ontario Genealogical Society Toronto 1986 there is a note that John Cram from Comrie par, PER (Perthshire, Scotland) To Montreal QUE on the Curlew (name of boat) ex Greenock (port of departure) 21 July 1818 settled probably Beckwith Twp., Lanark Co, Ontario. John F. CRAM (1833 to 1915) was a Wool Puller of Carleton Place, co-owner, with his brother Peter, of a tanning operation in the Tesky / Teskey mill complex (see photo and write-ups) at Appleton, a Carleton Place Councillor for 12 years, Reeve for three years, a School Trustee for 12 years, and President of the Reform Association.

John Cram was one of some three hundred or more emigrants from Perthshire who in 1818 became the first large group of settlers of the township of which Carleton Place, for purposes of municipal administration, long remained a principal part. In recollections of that time, as he told them when he was over eighty years of age, he described what may be the first time human foot was set on the site of this town other than by its Indians and with the possible exception of government surveyors who were competing in that period the original survey of the township.

"A few years ago the late John Cram told me an anecdote about the first settlement of Beckwith. He said that he and a neighbour settler were chopping together one day, shortly after they located their claims. It was a fine calm afternoon. While sitting resting upon a fallen tree they thought they detected the sound of rushing water. They had never heard of any river near, as they came on the land by Bytown, so they agreed to an exploring expedition."

"When morning came they met at the clearance and followed the sound. The bush was very dense and the fallen trees many, and they had often to stop to catch the sound. But it grew louder and louder. After infinite toil they struck the river just where McArthur's store now stands (corner of Mill and Bridge streets). When the two white men emerged from the bush a tall Indian woman rose from the river bank. Plunging into the stream, she scrambled across to the other side, where there was an Indian camp. This was their first sight of the Mississippi river and falls." "Were you much troubled with the Indians?, I once asked him. "Very little. There was a beaver meadow close to our place where they came to trap. Once in a while one of them would walk silently into the house, light his pipe, and as silently walk away. They were very harmless."

Notes on Geography - Comrie is in Perthshire, Scotland. Comrie is a small town in the Scottish Highland, near Lock Earn which is in Lock Lomand & the Trossachs National Park. There is a small town near Comrie named St Fillan (like the Cemetery outside Carleton Place). Also near by is the town of Monzie.

The following is my best effort to transcribe land petition information obtained from the Canadian Archives office in Ottawa (copies attached in media). - indicated word unable to read.

Richmond military settlement 30 November 1821

Bay of Quinte settlement 8 March 1822

-- U Canada (?)

Office 16 April 1822

Sir: I have the honor to -- here with Returns of Discharge Soldiers and Emmigrant settlers placed on land in the Military Settlement Richmond, and Carrying Place, Bay of Quinte and who claim title deeds for the -- allotment desperately specified against their names in the news returns, the _ settlement having been favorably (?) I have the honor to be, Sir, your obedient servant - signed Col Cockburn

The next page scanned shows that John Cram was assigned 100 acres at 20 west in Beckwith Township. It further shows he is Scottish. The next name on the list is Peter Cromie, this is also the name after his on the passenger list of the Curlew boat of 1818 ( Peter Cromie who is assigned to 100 acres at 19 West).

Supporting the above are the land records for the township of Beckwith. They note the deed with the date of instrument of 17 May 1824 showing grantor of land being Crown to John Crain (sic) for all SW 1/2 of Lot 20 100 acres. In 1835 there is an instrument which centers part of this lot by John Cram 4 people, this notation likely provides details relating to John Cram this assignment of land for St Filian's Cemetery. In 1906, 1928 in 1937 there are specific references to the Cemetery.

On a website for the Shillington Family (Irish) who also settled at Carleton Place there is a informative account of the settlement of this area. Note in this that there is a claim that many came from Lock Eran (which is where Cram's came from).

Another history record, "A Pioneer History of the County of Lanark" reports: "At the close of the war (1812-1814), the British government was faced with two major problems, unemployment and industrial depression at home and an uneasy peace with the Americans abroad. Upper Canada was still vulnerable to invasion and it was thought the interior should be settled as a strong line of defense against further hostilities.

An immigration scheme was put into effect to settle the great wilderness north and west of the Rideau River, which flowed into the Ottawa.

The land, which was purchased, from the Chippewa and Mississauga tribes included the present townships of Bathurst, Drummond, Beckwith and Goulbourn. It was part of the Precambrian Shield, oldest rock in the world and only some of it was fit for agriculture. The remainder grew timber and much of it was swamp and rocky hillock."

To obtain the necessary settlers, the British Government offered special incentives to both the discharged soldier settlers and to the non-military groups. Besides free or low cost transportation, each head of family received an axe, shovel, hoe, scythe, knife, hammer, saw, kettle, nails, putty, twelve panes of glass, two files and a sharpening stone. Each man was allotted one hundred acres of land, which had to be proved up. (Proved up = cleared and made inhabitable).

The end of the war found a large force of British troops already in the country and these were to form the bulwark for the planned new settlements.

A large number of the officers and men of the 99th and 100th regiments were discharged and given land grants and other help as mentioned and thereafter became the nucleus of the Military Settlements of Perth and Richmond. The members of the old 100th regiment were directed to the Perth area while those of the 99th were settled in the newly established military district of Richmond. All told, more than 400 officers and men received such grants.

As mentioned, it had been recommended and approved that a new military settlement be established somewhere between Perth and Ottawa. A site was selected on what is now known as the Jock River and given the name Richmond in honor of the Duke of Richmond who was arriving in Canada to take over as governor-general. While the discharged soldiers of the 99th were waiting at Lachine, Quebec, for the opening up of a road to Richmond and completion of the military settlement, other events were taking place.

A party of 300 Scottish farmers, under the direction of John Robertson of Breadalbane, Scotland, arrived in Canada from Perthshire, desiring to settle in the Beckwith-Goulbourn area. These independent immigrants had made their own arrangements for emigration with the Earl of Bathurst. They paid their own passage to Quebec and were to be conveyed thereafter to their land at the expense of the government. After landing at Quebec City they were brought down river to Lachine and up to Bellows Point on the Ottawa River, at the foot of Chaudiere Falls. It was at this location, now part of Ottawa, where the families remained while the menfolk blazed a trail through the woods. During these weeks it is a matter of record that these settlers suffered much hardship through sickness, fire and loss of luggage. Eventually, however, a trail was cleared to enable them to trudge through the woods carrying their belongings.

Most of those arriving were from Loch Earn and Loch Tay and other neighboring parishes. Each head of family deposited ten pounds as security and the terms of their arrangement required the Colonial Office to provide land grants of 100 acres to each member or family head.

Most of the eastern section of Beckwith, known as the "Derry", so-called after a similar spot in Scotland, was largely settled by this group of immigrants. Others took up land in an area near the Township of Montague, which is known as "The Cuckoo's Nest". Lying between the fifth and sixth concessions in Beckwith Township and on the western fringes of Goulbourn Township (which was still part of Beckwith and not organized into a separate township until after the arrival of these settlers).

While Perthshire settlers had battled their way through the woods from Ottawa River landing to the land of their choice, the discharged soldiers, due to settle at Richmond, were still waiting at Lachine for the completion of the road and military settlement base.

Eventually, the first of the discharged soldiers began to arrive in August and by November, Colonel Cockburn was able to report to the Duke of Richmond that, "a very good road" had now been built from the Bay below the Chaudiere Falls to the village now known as Richmond. By November, four hundred families had been located at this new settlement.

Cockburn had also linked the depots of Richmond and Perth with a bush road, which followed the 4th concession line of Beckwith as far west as the center of the township (now the road linking Franktown and Richmond). Here it turned south to third line to Gillies Corners thence south-west to Drummond and thereafter to Perth.

In the Ottawa Archives there is a document, "Richmond Military Settlement", dated November 30th, 1821 giving a list of persons entitled to grants of lands, "having performed the terms of their settlement". This list contains over six hundred names of first families located in Beckwith and Goulbourn, among which is Shillington.

Isabella Stalker was buried in 1846 in St Filians Cemetery, Carleton Place, Ontario (aka Morphy's Falls).

John Cram and Isabella Stalker had the following children:

- i. MARY CRAM<sup>6</sup> (CONCERN THAT THIS MAY BE AN ERROR) was born about 1815 in Scotland.

Notes for Mary Cram (concern that this may be an error):

I had a note that she died in Saskatoon, but I have removed this as I dont have a note as to where that information came from and I find it hard to imagine a woman on her own would have gone to Saskatoon, the city was only founded in 1883 and so it would have been very desolate.

In records of her father and mothers' immigration to Canada it is noted they came with their three year old daughter Mary.

Notes for Ellen Toshack:

"Early Settlers Found Good Land in Ramsay Township", by Howard Morton Brown, Carleton Place Canadian, 11 May, 1961

One of the few letters which remain from those written by Ramsay settlers in the township's first year gives the optimistic impressions of a Glasgow society emigrant, John Toshack. He already had built his log cabin on land where later the village of Bennie's Corners waxed and waned, and was back at Lanark preparing to bring his family from the district centre to the new home. His letter tells of his hopes for his chosen lot and mentions two of the boats which served in the settlers' use of the "water conveyance." Writing to a friend in Glasgow, Alexander Sinclair, on September 11, 1821, he said in part:

"I gladly embrace this opportunity of writing you by Mrs. Graham who has lost her husband and is returning to Scotland. Our family is all well now, by the mercies of God, they are all recovered. We had four of them in the fever since we came here, Margaret, Andrew, Helen and Eneas. Many have died since arriving in Canada, some of the fever, others of the flux and others from the effects of fatigue.

We have got land in the township of Ramsay near the Mississippi River, which runs into the Ottawa about fifteen miles from our land. We are only half a mile from it. There are always plenty of good fish to be got in it, but especially in the spring, when I am informed they are caught in very great abundance.

William, John and James Bennie and I have each got 100 acres together, in a square. It is most beautiful land, and resembles the Dalmarnock haughs (low rich land beside a river). According to what I have seen of other land, it will produce abundantly of all which is necessary for the support of a family. The land is by no means generally good, there is much rock and swamp on many lots. Indeed I would not exchange the land that we have got for any other I see. But it is a great distance from this (ie., from Lanark), about twenty miles by land and near forty by water. Had it not been for the water conveyance we would not have attempted to go so far. We have built two flat boats, of fir boards at one inch thick, which we got from the saw mill at 3s.6d. per 100 feet.

I have got up a house, 22 feet by 16, which will do to begin with. Our land abounds with beautiful wood, of elm, maple, birch, beech, pine, and bass; the latter is somewhat like your saugh (sallow or broad-leaved willow). I often think if you had a few score of the trees that we cut down to burn you would turn them to better account.

Settlers Tools

"I hope to have all my luggage and family on the land in about ten days,....Government has been very honorable. Besides conveyance from Quebec to Lanark and rations - the rations consist of one pound of bread and one of pork for a man, one half each for a wife, one third for a child above seven and one quarter for those under. - I have got a blanket for myself, one for my wife, one for every two children and one for the odd one; also an axe, a hand saw, a bill hook, an iron wedge, two pair hinges, a thumb-neck (door latch), two files, a stock-lock, two gimlets, a pick axe, a hammer, a scythe and stone and among us four we have got a pit and cross-cut saw and we will get a grindstone when we want it. There are also nails and other things still to be got. (Note: Among other supplies issued were spades, hoes, harrow teeth, sickles, pitchforks, adzes, augers, kettles and frying pans.)

The gentlemen here and all the way from Quebec, who had the charge of forwarding us, seemed to vie with each other in discretion and kindness. This is the most merciful act that I ever knew the British Government perform. It affords many poor industrious families the means of obtaining the necessaries of life who had no such prospect before. You will observe that I am writing only from information and observation, it will require another twelve months to come to enable me to write from experience. I think the emigration is likely to be carried on at least another year. There are three townships to be surveyed beyond Dalhousie, Lanark and Ramsay, near the grand river. I will if spared write you more particularly afterwards and hope to give you more information."

John Toshack, who came to Ramsay with his wife, seven sons and two daughters, was a man of strong religious tendencies. He had been a deacon in the Congregational Church under the Rev. Mr. Ewing in Glasgow, and preached in the first shanties of settlers in Ramsay before there was an ordained clergyman in the township. His younger daughter, eleven years old at the time of the 1821 migration, became the wife of the first Peter Cram of Carleton Place. Surviving her husband on the Cram farm homestead on High Street which later was acquired in the eighteen eighties by her nephew Peter Cram (1831-1920) of Carleton Place, she died in 1890 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Thom.

Peter Cram and Ellen Toshack had the following children:

Cram Mina F Daughter-in-law M Jan 29 1876 25 (wife of John)

Death reg shows that Peter died in his home and was a widow.

In the Cram handwritten booklet found that the Carleton Place library there is the following: he went at age 21 to the California gold fields with some six other local young men including Teskeys and Moffat's, then ran a tannery, at Appleton, Ontario from 1853 to 1875, and then at Perth until 1882, removing then to Carleton Place, where he was a schoolteacher and a town councillor. He had an exceptional memory and could quote long passages from historical and literary works. In politics, like most of the Cram relatives, he was a strong supporter of the reform and liberal views of the times, as were most of the districts many Scots.

1920-02-27- Almonte Gazette

Brief mention was made last week of the death of Mr. Peter Cram, one of our oldest and -most prominent citizens, which sad event occurred on the 18th instant, after a brief illness, of heart failure, although he had never fully recovered from the effects of a stroke that he sustained some 18 months previous.

Mr. Cram was born in Beckwith, in January, 1831, being a son of the the late James Cram, whose farm was that at present owned by Mr. Fred M. Cram, and who was a son of one of the earliest of the township's settlers. The subject of our sketch spent his early days upon the land, and shortly after the gold find in California joined a party of some half dozen young men from this locality- the Teskeys and Moffatts being of the party-and in 1852 travelled across the continent to the golden state.

A couple of years later he returned and in company with his brother, the late John F Cram built a tannery at Appleton, and made a success of it, later on adding wool-pulling as a branch of their business. While living at Appleton Mr. Cram was married, his wife being Margaret Campbell of Drummond, their marriage taking place in April, 1857.

Five children blessed their fireside, two sons and three daughters. One of the latter died in Perth, at the age of 14 years. The others survive-J. A. C., at home; John W., assistant king's printer, Regina; Mrs. George Watters (Mary) and Mrs. Wm. Findlay. (Annie)

Mrs. Cram predeceased her husband, passing away in 1909, two years after celebrating their golden wedding. The business partnership at Appleton was dissolved by Mr. J. F. Cram withdrawing and coming to Carleton Place, and some years later Peter sold out and removed with his family to Perth, where they resided for some years, coming to Carleton Place in 1882, and a couple of years later purchasing the property on High Street, on the top of the hill, where his home has since been until the last.

He was a great reader, possessed a wonderful memory and could quote whole sections of history or chapters of the Bible at will He was a versatile writer, and on occasion could use this faculty in a masterly fashion. He always took a keen interest in public affairs, and for many years was a member of the Board of Education and also a member of the town council.

In religion, he was a Presbyterian, and the services at the funeral, which took place on Saturday afternoon were conducted by Rev. Mr. Monds assisted by Rev. Mr. Forsythe. The pallbearers were four nephews, Messrs. Ro'bt. Cram Westboro; Colin McIntosh, A. E. Cram and F. 'M. Cram, and Messrs. Ro&t. Patterson and Wm.

Notes for Andrew Wilson Cram:

From Ancestry.com site: The Farmer, "Andrew W. Cram", Lot 21, Concession 12, Township of Beckwith, County of Lanark.

June 20, 1983 , Carleton Place, Ontario, Canada

The First owner of this land was the Late Duncan Cram, the fourth son of Peter Cram and Janet Kay of Comrie, Perthshire, Scotland. He was a prosperous mill owner and staunch Presbyterian, who migrated to Canada around 1819. There was a great depression in textile, industry in Scotland at this time and many people of Scottish ancestry left their own Country seeking better times in far off Canada.

The first Duncan Cram was married to Agnes Wilson, daughter of William Wilson of Appleton, sister of Mrs. John Bell, Perth and Andrew who married Margaret Bryson, relative of Jan George Bryson, Fort Coulonge, Quebec. Both grandparents (Duncan Cram and Anges Wilson) are buried in the older section of the United Cemeteries, Beckwith, St. Fillian's named after the cemetery in Scotland.

The farm was of very fine clay soil; had also a splendid waterfront on the West side along the Mississippi River and stretched from the 12th Concession of Beckwith to the Townline. To make it more attractive, a forced road passed along the front, following the river and was the main road running from the Village of Appleton Station on the Canadian Pacific Railway line, where the late Mr. Samuel Cram owned his farm.

It might be interesting to record that the Crown Deed of this land was lost when a disastrous fire destroyed the fine stone home and its valuable library of early editions of many books which had been brought out from Scotland. This fire took place on Easter Monday, 1897. It has been reported that this fine home and out buildings were burned in forty-five minutes. The cause of the fire was an overheated furnace, one of the first to be used in that district. The late Mr. Andrew Cram was rescued from the blazing horse stable by the heroic action of his neighbours. He had gone there to rescue some horses.

The members of the family of the late Duncan Cram, (first owner), consisted of the following: Duncan, James, student for minister Reverend Peter Alexander (all three educated at St. John's College, Winnipeg), Margaret, Janet, Mary, Anges (died of pleurisy when quite young) and Andrew Wilson, who inherited the farm in 1894 at the time of his mother's death.

The first four members of this family never married. The others married the following: Margaret, married John Hartin, well-known cattle drover, Hazeldean, Ontario. Mrs. Allan Lowe, and Mrs. Albert Lowe, Ashton are granddaughters. Janet married Donald Carmichael, 11th Concession Beckwith. Mr. Norman Carmichael, Carleton Place, is their son and Miss Marion Carmichael, is a granddaughter. Mary, married John Brown who with his brother-in-law John MacDonald, operated a woolen mill on Mill Street, Carleton Place. Their family consisted of two sons, Robert, a banker and Herbert, his father's business partner, and four daughters, Agnes, Anniel, Florence and Jean. All are deceased. Florence died May 9th, 1967 in Ottawa.

Andrew Wilson married Jean Dunlop of Carleton Place, her father was a well-known cabinet-maker, James Dunlop, who erected that fine colonial style house on the Townline, still in good condition today. Their family consisted of two children, a son, Wilson Dunlop Cram, B.Sc.F. who served in the Royal Canadian Air Force in World War I, and after graduating from the University of Toronto, served in the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests for thirty years. He died October 31st, 1953. He was the only male heir to the family name.

Hilda Jean Cram, B.A., is the last member of her family. She graduated from Queen's University in 1934, and served as school principal (Prince of Wales) Carleton Place for over twenty years, now retired. She died October 5th, 1968.

Andrew Wilson Cram moved to Carleton Place after the fire in 1897 but still operated the farm. He became the first highway Contractor in our County, and beyond. He died on August 7th, 1935. Around 1933, the farm was sold to Mr. Peter Timmins, Beckwith and then to Mr. H.B. Montgomery, Carleton Place, who used it as grazing land for his beef cattle. He in turn sold it to the Brunton Brothers, Prospect, who also used it in the same manner.

It might be interesting to note that on the farm the last Andrew Cram had laid a system of tile drains, which were the first in the area. This was an expensive item at the time but over the years this experiment proved quite worthwhile - bumper crops of grain were produced on the heavy clay soil which could be cultivated and seeded out early. Later, Mr. Peter Timmins dredged out some of the older drains and devised a way of having his stock go out under an elevated bridge, thus, allowing the cattle to have free access to the river.

Walden S. Cram 1884-74 was born & raised at Carleton Place, where his father was Sec. & Office Mgr of Gillies Woolen Mill. Walden was infected with polio as a boy which left him partially crippled in one leg and arm. He was awarded a scholarship for Queens University where he obtained his BA in 1906, then migrated to Regina, SK and attended summer Normal School. He then taught at Carlyle 1906-07, was Principal of Yorkton High School 1907-13, then Inspector of Schools 1913-29 and transferred to the Saskatoon Normal School December of 1929, where he worked until retirement in 1946.

He wrote a book of poems that was published in 1962, see C Ashby for a copy of book and note that was mailed to Geraldine & Pete to share the book (in the note the arrival of Christopher is noted)

As a hobby both before and after his retirement, Walden researched his family tree, sadly I (C Ashby) have never found any of the documents he created on his work.

Stuart Cram remarked in 2016 that he remembered that Walden Cram was always very well dressed.

She was born on 11 Dec 1884 in St Thomas, Elgin County, Ontario, Canada<sup>8, 10-11</sup>. She died on 25 Nov 1941 in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Canada<sup>12</sup>.

Notes for Walden Scott Cram:

From "One Cram Family in Canada and USA" by Wm H Cram, 1992:

Walden S. Cram 1884-74 was born & raised at Carleton Place, where his father was Sec. & Office Mgr of Gillies Woolen Mill. Walden was infected with polio as a boy which left him partially crippled in one leg and arm. He was awarded a scholarship for Queens University where he obtained his BA in 1906, then migrated to Regina, SK and attended summer Normal School. He then taught at Carlyle 1906-07, was Principal of Yorkton High School 1907-13, then Inspector of Schools 1913-29 and transferred to the Saskatoon Normal School December of 1929, where he worked until retirement in 1946.

He wrote a book of poems that was published in 1962, see C Ashby for a copy of book and note that was mailed to Geraldine & Pete to share the book (in the note the arrival of Christopher is noted)

As a hobby both before and after his retirement, Walden researched his family tree, sadly I (C Ashby) have never found any of the documents he created on his work.

Stuart Cram remarked in 2016 that he remembered that Walden Cram was always very well dressed.

Notes for Olive Ayearst Norsworthy:

Eulogy written by Christopher Ashby : I have had no idea where to start, to draw together a group of words or thoughts that somehow reflect and share my thoughts and feelings at this time. I am speaking on behalf of the next generations. As our Grandmother's, as she would say "favourite, oldest, grandson", I asked all the other, " favourite grand children" for a word to describe our Grandmother. These words linked together pay honour to the life that is no more,

From deep within the hole that once was the space my grandmother filled perseverance springs forth, and we celebrate the joy of having been so lucky as to have had a chance to share some time with Florence Edythe Vanderburgh Cram.

A lady who taught us many things; like serve from the left clear from the right; which may not be the stuff that seems at all too important but manners are, and they are because they show respect for your fellow man. And Grandma was the Queen of Manners. When I was very young I considered her to be the Queen of Cobalt. When we drove down the streets in the Volkswagen beetle or the orange speed car, it felt as though she was the center of the world, everyone knew her and everyone loved her. It has always been an honour to be with her, to be seen out with her made a person feel elevated, respected.

What she was not however was lofty, she was always full of acceptance. Acceptance for each person she met. She took them for what they were and always celebrated what they had to offer -- this did not mean that she agreed or even pretended to agree with everyone else's opinion or actions. What she did try to do was ensure that each person was allowed their dignity.

Grandma was a brilliant woman, a lady who was always ahead of her time. She did not ask us to follow the rules of the world but rather demanded that we set our own rules and the live by them. Respect your fellow man, let every one shine in their own way, and expect little in return for what you give. For if you give with expectation and then you really are not giving at all. And be proud, be proud of your accomplishments and what you learned from your failures.

And grandma was proud, she had many challenges set before her but her head remained squarely set on her shoulders. This is perhaps why when you were with her you too felt proud and perhaps, majestic even -- for you knew no matter what was said or done that she would always show acceptance and love.

In the Christmas movie, It's a Wonderful Life, there is a scene where we learn that each time a bell rings it means an angel has received its wings. Grandma went through life giving angel's wing's -- or at least I believe this to be true because of those earrings. The hearings that are the silver bells, the bells that always rung. I loved those earrings and I loved her round face and sparkling eyes.

On behalf of all her favourite grandchildren; Sean, Alex, Jennifer, Sarah, John, Melanie, Sarah, myself Christopher, and the favorite great-grand child Stuart, our memories live on with thoughts that a piece of each of us has gone away, but we have all gained far more than we have lost.

John Norsworthy Cram and Florence Edythe Vanderburgh had the following children:

7. i. GERALDINE VAN(DERBURGH)<sup>3</sup> CRAM was born on 17 Jul 1940 in Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan (3:15 am<sup>25</sup>). She died on 13 Jan 2020 in Powell River, British Columbia, Canada (11 AM). She married Arthur Clyde Ashby, son of Charles Clyde Ashby and Lois Elizabeth Russell, on 26 Nov 1960 in Marmora, Ontario. He was born on 18 Apr 1938 in Peterborough, Ontario.
8. ii. JOHN NORSWORTHY CRAM was born on 28 Nov 1941 in Indian Head, Saskatchewan. He married (1) JOANNE ELIZABETH MACKAY on 29 Dec 1967 in Vancouver, British Columbia. He died on 13 Feb 2012 in Yuma, Arizona, USA.

- iv. ALAN MURRAY CRAM was born on 15 Aug 1951 in Halifax, Nova Scotia. He died on 05 Oct 1998 in Vancouver, British Columbia. He married Diana Maria Souza de Pereira in 1974 in Vancouver, British Columbia<sup>29</sup>. She was born in 1943.

Notes for Alan Murray Cram:

Alan had a life that was best stated as being full of complete ups and/or downs. He was a fun loving child that was great in many outdoor sports but his finest achievements were in ice hockey. He was approached but refused a draft for the National Hockey League. He studied and obtained his BA in English and a teaching certificate.

In his 30's he became greatly depressed, and never really recovered. He grew to become reclusive and his untimely end was made more unpleasant for all due to the fact the family had no idea he had passed away until he was discovered approximately one month after his death (he had not been in communication with family for some time).

Alan's ashes were scattered into the Montreal River (the same place some of his father's ashes were placed), on the site of a log cabin he built as a teenager across the river from the Cram home on the Montreal River and some are with his mother.

10. v. WENDY JANE CRAM was born on 08 Mar 1953 in Ottawa, Ontario, Civic Hospital. She married (1) DAN JERROL STRONG on 31 Aug 1974 in Cobalt, Ontario. She married (2) JAMES ALEXANDER LYONS, son of James Alan Winfield Lyons and Mary Louise Sedgwick, on 21 Mar 1981 in United Church, Cobalt, Ontario. He was born on 30 Jun 1947 in Toronto, Ontario.
3. DAVID LLOYD GEORGE<sup>2</sup> CRAM (Walden Scott<sup>1</sup>) was born on 04 Mar 1917 in Swift Current, Saskatchewan<sup>17</sup>. He died on 27 Jan 1977. He married EDITH BEATRICE ECKMAN. She was born on 24 Jan 1912. She died on 15 Mar 1974.

David Lloyd George Cram and Edith Beatrice Eckman had the following child:

11. i. DAVID STERLING<sup>3</sup> CRAM was born on 02 Sep 1939. He married KATHLEEN ANN JOHNSON. She was born on 06 Jun 1943.
4. ROBERT WALDEN CRAM (Walden Scott<sup>1</sup>)<sup>18</sup> was born on 19 Nov 1918 in Swift Current, Saskatchewan, Canada<sup>18-20</sup>. He died on 11 Dec 2007 in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Canada<sup>21</sup>. He married Dorothy Greenway, daughter of Thomas Greenway, on 02 Dec 1942 in Emmanuel College Chapel, Toronto, Ontario. She was born on 26 Aug 1916. She died on 26 Oct 2003 in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Canada<sup>22</sup>.

showcased an impressive musical palette. The album received favorable reviews in important Canadian publications such as Exclaim magazine and the Vancouver Province, and received airplay on college radio and across the country on CBC radio.

McLachlan's guitarist on the original Lilith Fair, as well as the Mirrorball and Afterglow albums, Ashby appeared with her on "Just Like You (Cats In The Cradle)" for D from Run DMC's solo CD. Also with Sarah, he received two 4 x platinum US discs and one diamond Canadian disc for studio and live CD's. Sean's guitar playing has appeared on CD's with sales in excess of 10 million copies worldwide... so far.

When asked about his hopes for his solo future Sean says "I am working at building an audience for my music, playing shows and improving as a songwriter and performer." Since Brass and Gold's release in 2008, Sean has been touring relentlessly, performing over 200 shows a year across Canada and the US, and somehow squeezing in two tours with Delirium as well. He's making new fans, and being asked to return everywhere he goes. His current album "24 Hours of Daylight", showcases Sean's guitar skills and earthy vocals on a new set of strong tunes with a rootsy bent. This record also features his amazing technique on lap steel guitar, a highlight of his live shows. The track- "Sweet Tuesday" has been featured nationally on CBC radio. Sean is keeping up a heavy touring schedule again this year, visiting most of Canada and the US in 2011.

Notes for Charles Norsworthy:

1861 census we find his father and family but the four oldest children are no longer with the family, including Charles who was married in 1854 and started his own family - location is what we can not find.

Notes from the a booklet titled: Ontario's Threshing Machine Industry, published by School of Engineering, University of Guelph.

Charles Norsworthy was born in Whidcombe (sic) , Devonshire, England, and immigrated to Canada as a young man. He settled in London, Ontario where he learned the machinist trade. The next mention of Charles Norsworthy is in the Lampton County Centennial History which records him in the 1850s, the thriving new community of Arkona processes nearly 20 manufacturing concerns in addition to stores, hotels and churches. Outstanding among the industries was the foundry of Champion and Norsworthy, manufacturing reaping, mowing and threshing machines, plows, cultivators, mill gearing and castings for all kinds.

Then we find the History fo Elgin County recording that in the year 1871 C Norsworthy & Co. purchased the Red Foundry which produced farm implements located at the corner of Center and Metcalfe Street in St. Thomas, which they have enlarged and modernized with new and superior machinery and continued to make farm implements. The line was gradually dropped and the company drifted into the manufacturer of engines and boilers about 1880. It was further stated that Charles Norsworthy is a practical machinist and has followed his occupation as an iron worker for the past 25 years. John C. Lindop, the other member of the firm, is a native of St. Thomas and well known as a faithful and capable businessman. The firm carries on with the manufacturing of agricultural machinery and a wide variety of castings and articles badly needed by the community in those times.

Just when they began the manufacture of portable steam engines is not recorded but advertisements in the 1880s mention them and the McDonald Manufacturing Company of Stratford picture one in their catalogs stating that they were the best on the market and would be supplied along with their own "Standard" or "Decker" thresher to anyone desiring a complete threshing outfit. These Norsworthy portable engines were all of the return flue type with the smokestack and cylinder at the rear of the boiler. For the Western market at the firm built a patented strong burner in which the straw used for fuel was burned in an attached a separate furnace allowing only the hot gases to pass through the fire box and tubes of the boiler.

Charles Norsworthy died in the early 1890s (note from Christopher Ashby: he died in the late 1890's) . His partner carried on for a few years then the business was sold to a new firm headed by Messrs Spitsig, Barbrick and Hauck. The new company were so busy with the manufacture of Stowe's that they never started into the engine business and though well liked old Norsworthy portable threshing engines soon became only a memory to those who had owned or operated one of them.

In another book: St Thomas And Its Men of Affairs, published 1924, Page 74: the old Red Foundry on the corner of Center and Metcalfe streets, has been a landmark for a century. It was flourishing when St. Thomas was a village; it has grown one with the growth of the city, and is now an establishment that any city might point to with pride. It was founded by John and William Stacey in 1852, and they had for partners Hiram Hunt and William B. Richardson. A disagreement among the members in a few years about the management caused a dissolution and the business was closed out. The firm well it lasted just a large business in stoves, tinware, plows and farm implements. At a later date Joseph Stacey and James Tucker did a large repair business for a short period, and others conducted it with varying results to the year 1871, 43 years ago, when the president firm of C. Norsworthy & Co. acquired the business. From that time on word the plant has been enlarged at short periods, and the business extended and tell the firm and its output are familiar to the people of the Dominion, from Halifax in the east to Vancouver in the West. The firm made farm implements at first, that this line was dropped, and it gradually drifted into making various lines of machinery, such as engines and boilers, hand lathes, water works supplies, shafts and pulleys, automatic stokers. They also do heavy forging and make patterns. They do a large business in manufacturing machinery from chat rooms furnished, and from blueprints. The plant has been greatly enlarged and improved during the past year, and ranks as one of the best machine shops in the country. The firm employs 35 men and pays upwards of $13,000 a year in wages. The business has been profitable, and its outlook for the future is bright. The Messrs Norsworthy are "to the manner born" having been brought up in the business and thoroughly instructed in all its branches, and at the death of the elder Norsworthy, their father, a few years ago, took his place in the firm. The latest addition to the plant is a large department for the manufacture of furnaces.

In the book: Vignettes of Early St Thomas (Ref #37131b063 052 94 6) by W C Miller: ...in reference to the foundry...acquired in 1871 by C. Norsworthy under whose guidenace it was continued on for many years. One of its products -- home furnaces -- became widely known and the furnace developed by the Norsworthy firm, the Howard, made such a name for itself that its name proved to be a valueable business asset and the Howard Furnace is still made by a Toronto plant. Norsworthy had a son, Howard, and the father gave his name to his best known product. The Norsworthy firm recieved manufacturing rights to a U.S. Fire Hydrant and most of the presentlyexisting hydrants on the St Thomas system were made by this plant, under the original name -- the Ludlow Hydrant.

Charles Norsworthy and Amilia aka Emily McLachlan had the following children:

- i. MARY<sup>5</sup> NORSWORTHY<sup>23, 185-189</sup> was born on 25 Oct 1856 in London, Middlesex, Ontario, Canada<sup>23, 185-187</sup>. She died on 14 Feb 1931 in Santa Monica, Los Angeles, California, USA (Age: 75<sup>23, 185, 187, 189</sup>). She married Frederick Charlesworth Paulin, son of David Paulin and Mary Ann Charlesworth, on 11 Oct 1899 in Los Angeles, California, USA. He was born on 24 Jul 1861 in Clinton, Huron, Ontario, Canada<sup>61, 192-194</sup>. He died on 20 Nov 1915 in California, USA<sup>61, 196-197</sup>.

Frederick Charlesworth Paulin<sup>61, 192-194</sup> lived in Ontario, Canada in 1871<sup>61</sup>. He lived in Elgin East, Ontario, Canada about 1881<sup>61</sup>. He lived in Elgin East, Ontario, Canada in 1891<sup>61</sup>. He lived in United States<sup>61</sup>. He lived in Brentwood Park, California<sup>193-194</sup>. He lived in Brentwood Park, California<sup>194</sup>. He was employed as a Land developer.

Notes for Frederick Charlesworth Paulin:
From Anne Brookes Norsworthy site:

F. C. PAULIN and his family built a home and lived in Imperial for a number of years. There are numerous references to him and his contributions to the development of this area. One article mentions a street, PAULIN, and while no proof can be found that it was in reference to him, it can reasonably be assumed to be true given his influence in that city at that time. The following paragraphs document some of his achievements.

"F. C. PAULIN. IMPERIAL. 1901. Mr. PAULIN came to the Valley to handle the affairs of the Imperial Land Company under a contract with George Chaffey. He had charge of townsites and the sale of water stock and was closely associated in every way with the early development of the entire Valley. He built one of the first residences in Imperial, where he and his family resided for a number of years. His sons carried on the business after Mr. PAULIN retired".

"The Valley is beginning to attract the attention of wealthy men. A party of Los Angeles and San Francisco bankers, including J. M ELLIOTT, Warren GELLELAN, Willard DORAN, Moses AVERY and E. B. POND, accompanied by high railroad officials and guided by A H. HEBER, F. C. PAULIN and W. F. HOLT spent a whole day in the Valley, arriving at 3 a.m. in private cars, and driving to Calexico and return. This party was extremely well impressed".

"In the deal made with the Chaffeys and the Delta Investment Company, at this time, their personal interest in the stock of the California Development Company and of the Imperial Land Company was purchased by HEBER, BLAISDELL, HEFFERNAN, and ROCKWOOD, of the old guard, and by Messrs. F. C. PAULIN, J. W. OAKLEY, and H. C. OAKLEY, who had been very active as outside agents under the Imperial Land Company, and who at this time became directly interested with us as owners of one-half of the stock of the Imperial Land Company, and of a smaller percentage of the stock of the California Development Company. Mr. PAULIN became the manager of the Imperial Land Company, Mr. HEBER being its president as well as president of the California Development Company."

"FIRST BOOTLEGGER. A wagon loaded with liquor stopped at Flowingwell last week and the driver brought his outfit on to Imperial. He was met by a committee composed of F. C. PAULIN., H. C. OAKLEY and Dr. J. W. OAKLEY and was told not to try to sell liquor here. The bootlegger tried to argue but the next morning he was out of town and on his way - without a sale". [pg. 168]

"HEBER HAD A GOOD START. The definite decision to change the name of Paringa to Heber and replat [replace] the townsite in a new and original way came when the Imperial Valley Realty Company, handling townsites for the Valley, announced its plans September 12, 1903. The new town is to have avenues none less than 100 feet wide with two main ways of 125 feet. These wide streets will be parked with a different sort of trees lining each street. A row of trees down the center will be planted. A large agricultural park is also planned for Heber. The new railroad from San Diego to Yuma will positively pass through Heber and the new road from Holton to the Imperial Branch will more than likely be garnered for the new town.

These announcements caused a widespread rumor in and around Imperial that the townsite company was planning to forsake Imperial as the big, central town of the Valley and put all its energies on the development of Heber. F. C. PAULIN, however, caused publication of an emphatic statement denying the truth of this."

Notes for James Counter Norsworthy:

THE HAUNTED NORSWORTHY HOME by Helen w. Foster THE IS THE LAST ARTICLE IN THE SERIES "ECHOES OF THE PAST"

Behind an impressive screen of shade trees, the Norsworthy home broods over Ingersoll. James Counter Norsworthy came with his parents to Canada from Devonshire, England in 1852 and eventually established himself as "Banker and Broker, Insurance and Loan Agent" on King Street.

Originally Crown Land, the 200 acres was granted in 1806 to Ebeneze Whiting, one of Ingersoll's early settlers. The present owner of the home, Jessie Robins, believes that the house was built in the 1850's and it came with the dowry of Norsworthy's first wife, Mary Jane. The marriage was announced in the Ingersoll chronicle, May 2 1978 (should be 1878), "Thursday evening last, our townsman J.C. Norsworthy was united in marriage with Miss May (note: note sure why she is noted as Miss May when her name is Mary) , eldest daughter of Mrs. Cuthbert of West Oxford in the presence of a number of invited guests. Mr & Mrs Norsworthy left on the midnight train for New York. We wish them every happiness."

The following week there appeared a letter with the bold headline ADVICE TO THE NEWLY MARRIED MAN FROM AN EXPERIENCED BENEDICT - The long column of free advice contained, among other things. "Don't scold your wife and don't beat your children, if you have any... Bathe often, look after your health..and never go home drunk. Keep clear of your wife's relations...Yours, John. " Just who "John" was and why he felt empowered to give such advice is lost in the pages of time. ( Note from C Ashby: I think that the person who wrote this article is adding information that has nothing to do with the James C Norsworthy subject, Having read may old newspapers I am sure this was just general advise to anyone who red the paper.)

Norsworthy elaborated upon the plain red brick Ontario farmhouse until he had a structure worthy of the dignity of the position that he held in town. The result is a melange of styles that nonetheless present a picturesque view to the observer. A veranda, usually thought to give a house a fashionable urban air, is graced with solid Doric columns. The left side is enclosed with stone and has beautiful stained glass windows. There are sumptuous glass windows throughout the home both exterior and interior. The right veranda sports a band shell design, topped with a very Victorian pinnacle. Above the pillared portico is a stately circular balcony which in turn is topped by a curiously curved gable. Although the pointed arches suggest Gothic, the window is curved Romanesque. The rounded design is echoed in the carved wooden fans of the flanking gavels and in the tri-windows on either side of the house. An Italianate tower is not only a decorative addition but practical as well. It housed a water tower and the giant steel tanks are still in place. The main door has a transom extending over the strengths. It is less sound structurally than a shortened transom, but a pleasing arrangement and a typical pattern in Ontario. The interior of the home is magnificently finished in wood and is said that Norsworthy had a carpenter in residence for over a year to complete the work. Frank Leake, a noted local woodcarver, did the elaborate mantelpieces. Interior doors are all equipped with locks and each one has a keyhole cover, a delightful eccentricity of a moneylender who held mortgages on hundreds of properties in town.

The ghost of Norsworthy's first wife, Mary Jane, is said to have haunted the house. Owner Jessie Robins attests to hearing and being aware of a "presence" in the home for many years. She believes that Mary Jane, who died of diphtheria in 1891 while nursing her sick children, was looking for her daughter. The mysterious Lady in Grey has not been seen on the balcony since the daughter Nellie died a few years ago.

The house shelters many secrets, chief among them an inexplicable natural flow of air that cools the house in summer. There is also a mysterious room under the basement that has never been explored. It is rumoured that following his death in 1936, Norsworthy's strongbox was not found. Mrs. Robins says that guests amuse themselves probing the rich wood carvings, hoping to find the hidden spring that will disclose the molding secrets.

The bronze bust of his son Edward, who died in action in 1915, is now atop the family monument in the Rural Cemetery. Oddly enough it does not face the front of the stone but is positioned so that he can deep an eye on his father's strongbox across the river.

An article published in Ingersol Times on Nov 10, 2010, written by Scott Gilles: Norsworthy brothers in arms, and name.

As the days lead up to Remembrance Day, our hearts and minds should be drawn to those men and women who have served Canada in the pursuit of peace.

More than 60,000 paid the ultimate price during World War One; the 'fortunate' returned home to fight their own personal hell for the remainder of their days.

Four native-born sons of Ingersoll were examples of both of these groups. Not only were they brothers in arms, they were blood brothers -Edward, Stanley, Alfred and John Norsworthy.

These were the four sons of James and the late Mary Jane Norsworthy. James had emigrated from Devonshire England in 1852 and by 1878 was well enough established in Ingersoll to wed Mary Jane Cuthbert of West Oxford.

Four sons and daughter Helen grew up in their large brick home at 250 King Street East. Sadly, Mary Jane died in 1891 at the young age of 38.

Born in 1879, Edward Cuthbert was educated at Toronto's Upper Canada College and pursuing the family business as banker and insurance broker in Montreal.

When war broke out he was one of the first to enlist with 13th Battalion of the Royal Highlanders of Canada -the famed Black Watch.

Siblings Stanley Counter, Alfred "Fred" James, and John Weldon were also working in Montreal. All four brothers had belonged to the same militia unit prior to the war; a surviving family photo shows the four handsome young men resplendent in their Highland uniforms.

Edward shipped out with the 3rd Brigade of the 1st Canadian Division in September of 1914. Made up of volunteers from the 13th Battalion, the Royal Montreal Regiment, the 48th Highlanders and the Canadian Scottish, this division saw action from April 1915 to the war's end.

It was this division that faced the first German gas attack in April 1915. It was this division that stood firm while all others around fled. It was during this attack that Major Edward C. Norsworthy was struck in the neck by a bullet and yet rally his troops. He was later bayoneted and died from his wounds.

Back at home James had a bronze bust of his fallen son mounted on top of the prominent family gravestone. It can still be seen today gazing across the Ingersoll Rural Cemetery towards his boyhood home.

Edward's body would have been hastily buried in a military grave. In 1922 a letter arrived in Ingersoll for James stating that while doing exhumation work in Flanders a body had been uncovered and identified as that of his eldest son. It was respectfully re-interred at the Tyne Cot Cemetery along with that of 12,000 other Commonwealth troops.

In 1916, James' second son Stanley was stationed in England when he married Georgina Maud Villiers Sankey. The following year, she gave birth to a son they named Edward Cuthbert.

A member of the 42nd Battalion, Major Stanley Norsworthy was wounded and awarded the Military Cross for gallantry. He lived until 1966.

Meanwhile, Lieutenant Fred Norsworthy was serving in the 73rd Battalion just days prior to the 1917 battle for Vimy Ridge. According to the Canada War Diaries for March 29th of that year, "the enemy's artillery was again very active....About 12:30 one peculiar shell dropped immediately above the Orderly Room, which burn even when placed in water.... About one o'clock a shell struck the Orderly Room, crushing it in and instantly killing the Assistant Adjutant Lieut. A.J. Norsworthy, one orderly room clerk, one of the pioneers, and wounding another orderly room clerk."

When Fred's original grave marker was replaced, it was brought back home to the family plot. A bronze plaque also describes how "his dauntless courage and cheerfulness under most trying conditions won the admiration of his superior officers and his men."

It only remains to state that the fourth brother, John Weldon, who had been born in Ingersoll a year before his mother's death, attained the rank of Lieutenant in the No. 6 (McGill) OS Battery Siege Artillery. Like his older brother Stanley, he managed to survive the hostilities and live a 'normal' life as a veteran of the Great War. He lost his final battle in 1975.

James C. NORSWORTHY, died suddenly at his home here Wednesday, November 4th. Death on Wednesday morning, November 4th, removed an outstanding Ingersoll resident in the person of James Caunter NORSWORTHY, King Street East. Deceased had been up and had breakfast as usual in the morning, and death followed suddenly about 9:45 o'clock. Although in poor health for the past 13 years, Mr. NORSWORTHY had not been confined to his bed steadily. Despite his great age and his illness, he had maintained his faculties to the end.

Deceased who was in his 91st year, was born in Devonshire, England, but left for Canada on his sixth birthday, coming with his people to the Thamesford area where his father took up land. As a young man he entered the insurance building business, coming to Ingersoll to make his home about 60 years ago. For many years he was an inspector for the North British mercantile Insurance Co., remaining with that firm until superannuated. He had travelled considerably, and was a lover of sculpture and art.

The pride of his later years had been the most brilliant record of his four sons during the Great War. They made a valiant name for themselves, two having made the supreme sacrifice. Their names are written high in the list of Canadian soldiers in the world struggle, the Victoria Cross being among the cherished reminders which came of their service.

A home-loving man, Mr. NORSWORTHY had given much time and money to the improvement of his beautiful home and grounds on King Street East, one of the most attractive of Ingersoll properties. For these reasons, he had not been one to seek public office, although many years ago he served for a time on the Ingersoll Board of Education. He had always taken a deep interest, however, in the affairs of his community and of the world at large.

A plainly-spoken man, and one who at all times indicated the full courage of his convictions, deceased was never doubted as to his stand or viewpoint on any public question. A great reader, and a student of world affairs, especially as they centered about the events leading up to, during and following the Great War, deceased was regarded as particularly well-versed on these matters, and in a private way, an authority on many angles of that catastrophe. He was a member of St. James Anglican Church.

Mr. NORSWORTHY was married twice, his first wife being Mary Jane CUTHBERT, who passed away some 41 years ago; he married Mrs. John T. MACDONALD of Sarnia, who survives him. He is also survived by the following sons and daughter by his first marriage: Lt.-Co. S.C. and Lieut. J. W. NORSWORTHY, Montreal; and Miss Helen A. NORSWORTHY. Two sons, Major Edward C. and Adjutant Alfred J. gave their lives overseas.

The funeral was held from the family residence "Norleigh", King Street East, on Saturday afternoon, where a short private service was conducted at 2 o'clock to St. James Anglican Church for public service at 2:30 o'clock. The service at the church was largely attended and was in charge of Capt., the Rev. C.K. MASTERS, rector of St. James Church. Members of the choir were in attendance. Although it was asked that flowers be omitted, there were many very beautiful pieces in evidence, testifying to the high esteem in which deceased was held.

The pall bearers were: Messr. Rex YULE, James S. CUTHBERT, Senator Donald SUTHERLAND; W.W. THOMPSON, Montreal; G.C. DEWAR and G.F. PEARSON, Toronto. Interment was made in the Ingersoll Rural Cemetery. Relatives were present from St. Thomas, London, Sarnia, Trenton, Forest, Toronto, Galt, Hamilton, and Windsor. Others from a distance included Lieut.-Co. W.H. CLARK-KENNEDY, V.C., Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. HOPKINS, Toronto; William C. NOXON, Toronto; T. R. RICHARDSON, Galt; W.T.A. MACFAYDEN, Toronto; George I. He lived in Montreal, Quebec, Canada in 1911. He was buried in Langeemarck Tyne Cot, Belgium<sup>183-184</sup>.

Notes for Edward Cuthbert Norsworthy:

Note from Bill Carlisle, May 2017: The action of Major Ed Norsworthy on April 22, 1915 is still remembered (by Black Watch) with extreme respect for his courage and leadership during the first gas attack. He, as you said served with the 13th Battalion. However I do not think that all three brothers served in the same BW Battalion. I say this because there was another Major Stanley Norsworthy, MC who survived the war having served with the 42nd Battalion Black Watch. Sadly another brother, Lt Fred Norsworthy was KIA with the 73rd Battalion Black Watch on March 29, 1917.

From Upper Canada College book / Discover the stories and remember the lives of UCC

Old Boys who gave the ultimate sacrifice in the Great War.: Major E. C. Norsworthy, who was killed in action on April 22nd, was born on the 29th of May, 1879, at Ingersoll, Ont., where his grandparents, a Devonshire family, had settled in 1852. His early education was begun at the Public Schools in Ingersoll and St. Thomas, and completed at Upper Canada College, from which he matriculated into McGill University in 1897, at the age of eighteen.

Undecided what to do, as many a boy is at this period of his life, he finally made up his mind to seek a career for himself in the financial world, and obtained a position with Messrs. Geo. A. Stimson and Co., dealers in bonds and debentures. Only a few men know how earnestly the young Norsworthy worked and studied in order to gain a thorough knowledge of the bond business. From nine till five he was busy in the office, and then worked half the night on the most difficult mathematical problems, making more progress in a few weeks under adverse conditions like these, than most men could do in a year, and keeping it up for months at a stretch. In 1901 he opened an office in Montreal for the Dominion Securities Corporation, and being very energetic and possessing a keen analytical mind he soon gained the confidence of investors and succeeded so well in promoting the business of his company that he was elected to the Board of Directors. Another position of importance which he held in the financial world was a directorship of the Canada

Cement Company.

In his student days he had been connected with the Cadet Corps in the St. Thomas Collegiate Institute, and the U.C.C. Rifle Company, and shortly after settling in Montreal he joined the 5th Royal Highlanders, and advanced step by step till he became major in 1909. Immediately on the outbreak of war he offered his services and proceeded to the Front with the First Contingent as second in command of the 13th Battalion, which was formed largely from his own regiment. He was very quick to realize that heretofore he had only been playing at soldiering, and really worried a great deal over the difficulties of training the men for the great struggle before them. But his letters of a later date indicated a much more hopeful outlook, and in one of the last letters he wrote from France he declared that he could see an improvement in his regiment from day to day. This improvement was due in large part (so it is said) to the earnestness and efficiency of Major Norsworthy.

On April 22nd the Colonial French troop, who were stationed next to the Canadians, were driven from the trenches by poisonous gases. This left one part of our line in a very dangerous position, and it was while bringing up reserves to prevent our left from being entirely surrounded that Major Norsworthy met his death. According to one report he was slightly wounded and then bayoneted, but from one of his closest friends who happened to be nearby at the time, it has been learned that he was killed almost instantly by a rifle shot through the neck.

She then took up nursing as a profession, was trained at the Western Hospital, Montreal, where she proved a bright student and earnest worker and graduated in due course. Associated with other friends she pursued her work so energetically and, especially in connection with some serious typhoid cases that her health broke down and she had to return home. The anxieties of the war period and the absence at the Front of so many members of the family circle prevented the complete recovery which had been hoped for. (Note from Anne Brookes site)

Notes for Frederick Charlesworth Paulin:
From Anne Brookes Norsworthy site:

F. C. PAULIN and his family built a home and lived in Imperial for a number of years. There are numerous references to him and his contributions to the development of this area. One article mentions a street, PAULIN, and while no proof can be found that it was in reference to him, it can reasonably be assumed to be true given his influence in that city at that time. The following paragraphs document some of his achievements.

"F. C. PAULIN. IMPERIAL. 1901. Mr. PAULIN came to the Valley to handle the affairs of the Imperial Land Company under a contract with George Chaffey. He had charge of townsites and the sale of water stock and was closely associated in every way with the early development of the entire Valley. He built one of the first residences in Imperial, where he and his family resided for a number of years. His sons carried on the business after Mr. PAULIN retired".

"The Valley is beginning to attract the attention of wealthy men. A party of Los Angeles and San Francisco bankers, including J. M ELLIOTT, Warren GELLELAN, Willard DORAN, Moses AVERY and E. B. POND, accompanied by high railroad officials and guided by A H. HEBER, F. C. PAULIN and W. F. HOLT spent a whole day in the Valley, arriving at 3 a.m. in private cars, and driving to Calexico and return. This party was extremely well impressed".

"In the deal made with the Chaffeyes and the Delta Investment Company, at this time, their personal interest in the stock of the California Development Company and of the Imperial Land Company was purchased by HEBER, BLAISDELL, HEFFERNAN, and ROCKWOOD, of the old guard, and by Messrs. F. C. PAULIN, J. W. OAKLEY, and H. C. OAKLEY, who had been very active as outside agents under the Imperial Land Company, and who at this time became directly interested with us as owners of one-half of the stock of the Imperial Land Company, and of a smaller percentage of the stock of the California Development Company. Mr. PAULIN became the manager of the Imperial Land Company, Mr. HEBER being its president as well as president of the California Development Company."

"FIRST BOOTLEGGER. A wagon loaded with liquor stopped at Flowingwell last week and the driver brought his outfit on to Imperial. He was met by a committee composed of F. C. PAULIN., H. C. OAKLEY and Dr. J. W. OAKLEY and was told not to try to sell liquor here. The bootlegger tried to argue but the next morning he was out of town and on his way - without a sale". [pg. 168]

"HEBER HAD A GOOD START. The definite decision to change the name of Paringa to Heber and replat [replace] the townsite in a new and original way came when the Imperial Valley Realty Company, handling townsites for the Valley, announced its plans September 12, 1903. The new town is to have avenues none less than 100 feet wide with two main ways of 125 feet. These wide streets will be parked with a different sort of trees lining each street. A row of trees down the center will be planted. A large agricultural park is also planned for Heber. The new railroad from San Diego to Yuma will positively pass through Heber and the new road from Holton to the Imperial Branch will more than likely be garnered for the new town.

These announcements caused a widespread rumor in and around Imperial that the townsite company was planning to forsake Imperial as the big, central town of the Valley and put all its energies on the development of Heber. F. C. PAULIN, however, caused publication of an emphatic statement denying the truth of this."

"A. H. HEBER retires from the Imperial Land Co., and F. C. PAULIN assumes sole control of that concern".

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF CALEXICO. The forming of the First National Bank of Calexico was first conceived by John F. GILES and J. M. EDMUNDS, who applied for a charter in January, 1910. The organization was perfected and charter granted for $25,000 capital stock and doors opened for business March 14, 1910, on the corner of PAULIN and Second Streets.... "[pg. 230]

Stanley Counter Norsworthy DSO MC was born at Ingersoll Ontario, and educated at Ridley College, St. Catharines. He began his banking career with the Bank of Montreal in London Ont. In October 1915, Norsworthy went to France with the 42nd Battalion, Royal Highlanders of Canada, with the rank of captain and remained with the battalion until January 1918.

He was twice "Mentioned in Despatches" and, in 1916 was awarded the Military Cross (MC). His citation reads in part, as follows: He took personal supervision of the operations in the front line, displaying great courage and initiative. Later, although wounded, he remained at duty. He set a fine example of coolness and devotion to duty throughout.

In 1917, Major Norsworthy was awarded the Distinguished Service Order (DSO). His citation reads as follows: For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when in command of his battalion. He went forward under very heavy fire and established a firm defensive flank. Assistant General Manager at the Bank of Montreal Head Office in Montreal, Quebec. In 1916, he married Georgina Maud Sankey. They had two sons and one daughter.

From the Gowers article. see attached, here is an account of the naming of his children and the relation to the Prime Minister of Newfoundland (at the time not part of Canada) While in London, England in the summer of 1916, Norsworthy married Georgina Maud Sankey of Toronto on July 26, at St. James Church, Paddington. His first child, a son who was named Edward Cuthbert Villiers Norsworthy, was born on August 31, 1917. Stanley and Georgina had two other children, both born in Montreal after they had returned to Canada following the end of the war: Beatrice Mary, on December 01, 1919; and Hugh Hoyles Norsworthy, on October 07, 1921. This third child was named for Lt. Hugh Lewis Hoyles, a member of the Quebec Regiment, who was killed at Amiens on August 12, 1918. Hoyles had two very strong ties to Norsworthy: they were classmates together at Ridley College; and Hoyles was married to Georgina Norsworthy's sister, Elizabeth Grace Sankey. It is quite possible that Georgina and Stanley had met through Hugh Hoyles, who had married Elizabeth in 1910. Hugh Hoyles was a further connection for Norsworthy to Newfoundland, in that his grandfather, also named Hugh Hoyles, was Prime Minister (1861-1865) and later Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Newfoundland (1865-1880).

Georgina Maud Villiers Sankey<sup>202, 207</sup> lived in St Patricks Ward, Toronto City, Ontario, Canada in 1891 (Marital Status: Single; Relation to Head of House: Daughter<sup>202</sup>). She lived in Montreal, Montreal (St Lawrence-St George), Quebec, Canada on 01 Jun 1921 (Marital Status: Married; Relation to Head of House: Wife<sup>202</sup>). She was buried in Montreal, Montreal Region, Quebec, Canada<sup>202, 207</sup>. She lived in Canada<sup>202</sup>.

Descendants of Francis Ayearst

Generation 1

1. FRANCIS<sup>1</sup> AYEARST<sup>1-3</sup> was born in 1792 in Sandhurst, Kent, England<sup>1, 3-4</sup>. He died on 16 Nov 1882 in Holland Landing, Ontario, Canada<sup>3, 5</sup>. He married Martha Avard on 26 Oct 1813 in Maidstone, Kent, England. She was born about 1788 in Kent, England<sup>3, 6-7</sup>. She died in Aug 1872 in Holland Landing, Ontario, Canada<sup>3</sup>.

Francis Ayearst<sup>1-3</sup> lived in York Township, Ontario, Canada in 1833<sup>8</sup>. He lived in Holland Landing, Lot 107-E in 1837<sup>4</sup>. He lived in Cons 1, part of Lot 108, East Gwillimbury, York Co, ON in 1851. He lived in Lot 9 50 acres, York Co, Ontario in 1861. He lived in York Co, ON in 1871<sup>3, 9-10</sup>. He lived in with son William in 1881 (Marital Status: Widowed<sup>1</sup>). He was buried on 20 Nov 1882 in Christ Church Anglican Cemetery, Holland Landing, ON<sup>11-12</sup>. He was employed as a Baker - 1833 and 1871 census,voter list. He lived in Kent, England<sup>2</sup>.

Notes for Francis Ayearst:

Lorna Wood 2009: I've been doing some work this morning on the Ayerst/Ayearst family and was just about to add Margaret Bowman to my tree. Margaret, born 17 October, 1840 in Markham Township, married William Ayerst, born 1838, on March 7, 1866 in Richmond Hill. William gave his parents' names as Edward and Elizabeth. But I do think he is the William listed with Francis and Martha on the 1851/1852 Census for East Gwillimbury Township, York County. Unfortunately, there is no 1851/1852 Census for Simcoe County. Also the Census does not actually give the relationship of each member of the household to the head of the household. I suspect that William, age 14, is actually Francis' and Martha's grandson.

I've looked at other Ayerst marriages in Simcoe County and York County and did find several for other children of Edward and Elizabeth Ayerst. Edward was Francis Edward Ayerst and Elizabeth was Elizabeth Roff. They are on the 1861 Census for Innisfil, Simcoe County. Elizabeth is not on the 1871 Census. Edward married Frances Wilson in either 1871 or 1872 and their son, James Franklin Ayerst, was born in 1873. I cannot find a marriage record for them on Ancestry. This is regrettable because it would give Edward's parents names.

There are two other trees on Ancestry that do include William Ayerst/Ayearst married Margaret Dezell. His parents are given as Francis Ayerst (1790-1882) and Martha Avard (1788-1872). Another of their sons was a Francis Edward Ayerst, born about 1813 in England. This would fit with the Edward Ayerst above.

Martha Avard<sup>3, 7</sup> lived in Ticehurst, Sussex, England in 1851<sup>3</sup>. She lived in York, Canada West, Canada in 1861<sup>3</sup>. She lived in York North, Ontario, Canada in 1871<sup>3</sup>. She was buried on 10 Aug 1872 in Christ Church Anglican Cemetery, Holland Landing, ON<sup>47</sup>. She lived in England<sup>3</sup>. She lived in Kent, England<sup>48</sup>.

Notes for Martha Avard:

Death Reg shows she died 5 Sept 1872 (dated 22 Nov 1872) - so either Anglican records are wrong or registry which was two months later is wrong. Anglican records read: Marth Ayearst 84 wife of Francis Ayearst born Kent England, died of old age, burial 10 August 1872.

I have seen the stone for Martha Ayearst : reads - Martha beloved wife of Francis Ayerst (sic) died Aug 8 1872 Age 84 formerly of County Kent England. Christ Church, Anglican Church, Hollands Landing, NOTE this stone does not claim HE is here but he is registered in the Anglican Archives Christ Church burial records , so is she.

- iii. FREDERICK RAYNER AYERST was born in 1848<sup>85</sup>. He died in 1918<sup>86</sup>.

Notes for Frederick Rayner Ayerst:

Lorna Woods, April 2009: One small point...Edward Francis Ayerst (1814 - 1894) and Elizabeth Roff Ayerst (1815 - before 1871) did name one of their sons Frederick Rayner Ayerst (1848 - 1918). William Ayearst (1816 - 1891) and Margaret Dezell Ayearst (1837 - 1906) named one of their sons Alfred Rayner Ayearst (1866 - 1895). Might be tenuous but the name Rayner does suggest a link between Edward Francis and William.

Notes for Frances Wilson:

Lorna Wilson, April 2009: was looking at an entry for James Franklin Ayerst (1873 - ?) on Ancestry in One World Tree. He was the son of Francis Edward Ayerst (1814 -1894) and Frances Wilson (1835 - 1911). According to this tree, Frances Wilson was actually a widow whose first husband was William Gilroy

Notes for Elizabeth Ann Bond:

Bond is a speculated last name by Lorna Woods: As for Elizabeth Ann, wife of William Ayearst. I tried to follow all of their children through marriage and death registrations to find her maiden name. I did find a death registration for their son, John Almayne Ayearst (born 7 February 1855), who died in Toronto on 5 January 1935. His mother's name was given as Martha Bond. Martha is definitely incorrect but I thought Bond just might be correct and so I have used that.

1861 Census has William's wife as Elizabeth, so it there is a discrepancy on the death info?

William Ayearst and Elizabeth Ann Bond had the following children:

- i. FRANCIS JOHN<sup>3</sup> AYEARST<sup>64</sup> was born on 23 Dec 1846 in Ontario, Canada<sup>65-68</sup>. He died on 01 Jun 1865 in Ontario, Canada<sup>70</sup>.

Notes for Margaret Dezell:

April 2009, Lorna Woods: I have the following from one of Margaret's descendants: May 11th, 2002 "The marriage record of Rev. Sam Fear for Wm. Ayearst and Margaret Cowan is inaccurate. I spent some time on that several years ago. Margaret Cowan was the widow of my great-grandfather William Cowan; her birth name was Margaret Dezell, daughter of James and Ellen Dezell. her first husband, William Cowan, died tragically at age 27, leaving her with a 2 year-old son and pregnant with my grandfather, another William Cowan. The 2 year-old's name was Thomas and he was raised by his grandparents, James and Ellen Dezell. My grandfather, William, was raised in the Ayearst family."

Notes for Walden Scott Cram:

From "One Cram Family in Canada and USA" by Wm H Cram, 1992:

Walden S. Cram 1884-74 was born & raised at Carleton Place, where his father was Sec. & Office Mgr of Gillies Woolen Mill. Walden was infected with polio as a boy which left him partially crippled in one leg and arm. He was awarded a scholarship for Queens University where he obtained his BA in 1906, then migrated to Regina, SK and attended summer Normal School. He then taught at Carlyle 1906-07, was Principal of Yorkton High School 1907-13, then Inspector of Schools 1913-29 and transferred to the Saskatoon Normal School December of 1929, where he worked until retirement in 1946.

He wrote a book of poems that was published in 1962, see C Ashby for a copy of book and note that was mailed to Geraldine & Pete to share the book (in the note the arrival of Christopher is noted)

As a hobby both before and after his retirement, Walden researched his family tree, sadly I (C Ashby) have never found any of the documents he created on his work.

Stuart Cram remarked in 2016 that he remembered that Walden Cram was always very well dressed.

William really was 19 or 20 years older than Margaret.

I have the following from one of Margaret's descendants: May 11th, 2002

"The marriage record of Rev. Sam Fear for Wm. Ayearst and Margaret Cowan is inaccurate. I spent some time on that several years ago. Margaret Cowan was the widow of my great-grandfather William Cowan; her birth name was Margaret Dezell, daughter of James and Ellen Dezell. her first husband, William Cowan, died tragically at age 27, leaving her with a 2 year-old son and preganant with my grandfather, another William Cowan. The 2 year-old's name was Thomas and he was raised by his grandparents, James and Ellen Dezell. My grandfather, William, was raised in the Ayearst family."

Notes for Dirch van der Burgh:

The following is an excerpt from "The Family of Richard Vanderburgh of Richmond Hill (1797-1869)", compiled by Wallace McLeod in 1962.

The name "van der Burgh" or "van der Burg" mean "of the Castle" in Dutch. There was a family of this name in Delftland, South Holland, which traced its ancestry back to the 12th Century. For generations the eldest branch owned a princely castle, situated at Rijswijk, near Delft, bearing the name of "De Burg" ("The Castle"); in fact the family probably took its name from the castle.

Even today there are Van der Burghs in South Holland, centering around the town of Berkel.

Dirch van der Burgh had the following child:

2. i. LUCAS DIRCHSZEN<sup>2</sup> VAN DER BURGH was born about 1620 in believed to be born in South Holland<sup>1</sup>. He died about 1669. He married ANNETJE CORNELIS. She was born in 1630 in New Amsterdam, New York, New York, USA<sup>2</sup>. She died after 1683<sup>2</sup>.

Generation 2

2. LUCAS DIRCHSZEN<sup>2</sup> VAN DER BURGH (Dirch<sup>1</sup>) was born about 1620 in believed to be born in South Holland<sup>1</sup>. He died about 1669. He married ANNETJE CORNELIS. She was born in 1630 in New Amsterdam, New York, New York, USA<sup>2</sup>. She died after 1683<sup>2</sup>.

Lucas Dirchszen van der Burgh lived in Arrived in New York, USA (then known as New Asterdam) about 1653. He was employed as a Discharged from Dutch West India Company (see notes) in 1656.

Notes for Lucas Dirchszen van der Burgh:

I believe the following is quoted from the book that Wallace Mcleod produced: One may imagine that he was a young member of this noble family. He was born about 1620/30, perhaps somewhere in South Holland, the son of Dirch van der Burgh. Lucas came to New York(then called New Amsterdam) before 1653, as a Sergeant in the Dutch West India Company. He was discharged from the accompanying at his own request, 15 February 1656, having "served the said hon'ble companies faithfully for a period of four years." On 16 February 1654 he had taken out a license as a Tavern keeper. In June 1656 he bought land at the present site of 21 Broadway, where he kept an inn. In 1666 he owned a Tavern, known as "The Sign of the Fort Orange" located at what is now 16 Stone St. His name is listed among those who swore allegiance to the English in 1664, when the Dutch surrendered colony. Lucas was still alive for March 1668/69 when he was named in the will of Cornelius Beekman; he died before 13 April 1670, as by that date his widow was married to Rev. Jacob Fabritius, a Lutheran Minister.

For a longer and very interesting history see attached media and link to William Powers Jr publication dated April 2002

Lucas Dirchszen van der Burgh and Annetje Cornelis had the following children:

- i. CORNELIS<sup>3</sup> VAN DER BURGH was born on 11 May 1653 in Date of Baptism at Dutch Church, New Amsterdam (New York). He died in 1699. He married Lievyntie Leunen on 07 Jan 1674.

Cornelis van der Burgh was employed as a New Yorks' first native-born silversmith.

Notes for Cornelis van der Burgh:

His silversmith mark was CV over B in a heart-shaped shield. There is a great deal of history noted on this man and his silversmith owrk, wealth and political connections.

Notes for Richard Vanderburgh:

The Vanderburgh House built in 1833 by Richard Vanderburgh is now an historical site in Richmond Hill, Ontario. The house was moved from its original location (present day 32 Hillview Drive) when a developer brought the land to build a condominium building. The house had been declared a heritage building in 1983. The new site is part of the original farm.

In the house, noted above, there is a document outlining its history: the Vanderburgh House is an attractive two-story clap board, saltbox structure built in 1833 by Richard Vanderburgh.

In 1805, Capt. James Fulton, a United Empire Loyalist and the first Justice of the Peace in the area, bought Lot 43, concession one from a Capt. James Lippincott. This location on the east side of Yonge Street was later no one has the Vanderburgh property. Capt. Lippincott had been a hero in the American Revolutionary War.

Capt. Fulton's daughter Elizabeth married Richard Vanderburgh in 1816. Vanderburgh was the son of a United Empire Loyalist who had farmed Lot 40, concession one. He had also been involved in a skirmish at Montgomery's Tavern in December, 1837, in which Col. Robert Moodie was killed.

After the marriage, Richard built a house on part of the Fulton farmland, which he later owned. The front of the house was built in 1833. Elizabeth died seven years later. The rear extension, which gives a house its saltbox appearance, was added on after Vanderburgh's second marriage to Phoebe Vernon in 1846.

Richard Vanderburgh died in 1869 at 72 and is buried in the Richmond Hill Cemetery. Afterward, the house was kept in the family until 1915 when James hadn't and his family boss says. Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Middleton lived in it all so for a short time but James Hunt was the last man to farm the property.

In the period when this house was built, most people were living in log cabins so it was considered luxury by comparison. The house features Georgian architecture, with a symmetrical front a central door and an equal number of windows on either side and above. The solid front door displays six panels with reed pilasters above. The other doors are paneled as well and at one time had square locks. The windows are multi-paned with plain wooden frames, common in that time.

The yellow siding, trimmed with cream paint, on the outside walls and Indian red doors were a popular combination in the mid-19th century. The stenciled decoration in the hallways and boardroom are actual copies of traditional North American srencilling. They were used when wallpaper was not readily available.

The original house had a huge fireplace with a thick chimney -- polls late one on top of the other, and plastered with clay. Any visible bricks were supposedly yellow in color.

When the Hunt family lived in the house, there was a veranda which ran across the front and down the sides. The veranda floor was made out of brick except for a small wooden section forming a trap door.

Walnut and other large trees surrounded the house and there was a barn which later burned down. The picket fence that now surrounds the house as the final touch to the restoration.

The original address of the house was 32 Hillview Dr., Richmond Hill. In the 1970s, a developer purchased the house, planning to demolish the house. But when he applied for a permit, it was denied any restoration began instead. Under the Ontario Heritage Act the house was declared a heritage building in 1983 and it is now an historical sites.

In 1986, the house and property were sold to Tridel Corporation, who continued the restoration with the help of LACAC (Local Architectural Conservation Advisory Committee).

Although the house had to be moved to make way for an underground garage for condominiums, it is still on part of the original Vanderburgh Farm.

Now owned by the Town of Richmond Hill, Vanderburgh house is 158 years old in 1991. Since 1989, the occupants have been the Richmond Hill Chamber of Commerce and the York Region Tourism Marketing Agency. Information researched by Orietta Calcina, Janet Fayle and George Duncan; among the sources was the Richvale Volume in the Richmond Hill Public Library.

Notes for James Alfred Vanderburgh:

Never married, Died of Pericious Anaemia: Pernicious anemia is a condition in which the body can't make enough healthy red blood cells because it doesn't have enough vitamin B12. Vitamin B12 is a nutrient found in some foods. The body needs this nutrient to make healthy red blood cells and to keep its nervous system working properly. People who have pernicious anemia can't absorb enough vitamin B12 from food. This is because they lack intrinsic (in-TRIN-sik) factor, a protein made in the stomach. A lack of this protein leads to vitamin B12 deficiency. Other conditions and factors also can cause vitamin B12 deficiency. Examples include infections, surgery, medicines, and diet. Technically, the term "pernicious anemia" refers to vitamin B12 deficiency due to a lack of intrinsic factor. Often though, vitamin B12 deficiency due to other causes also is called pernicious anemia.

twin brother of James Alfred

Teacher, Bookkeeper, Treasurer & Secretary of McLeod Municipality Neudorf, Saskatchewan.

In 1990 Evelyn's daughter Donna Douglas Hyde wrote Evelyn's memoirs of George Vanderburgh and her youth

George Vanderburgh was born a twin, taught school, teaching at Holly where he met mother [Jennie Campbell]. He wanted to become a doctor but finances weren't forthcoming and to further himself he went to business college at Collingwood. Following this he became a bookkeeper for a lumber company in Toronto. Here he had his first home built on 83 Brooklyn Avenue.

In the meantime mother took a dressmakers course in Toronto and made her own wedding dress. She and Dad were married in Holly Church where they were presented with a large family Bible. They honeymooned at Niagara Falls.

They lived in Toronto for nearly 5 years. Hearing the call to go West, he gave up his job, sold his home and went out to his sisters Jack and Florrie MacLeod in Grefell, Saskatchewan. Mother expecting Margaret took me and went up to her old home at Holly to wait until the baby arrived which was July.

Uncle Jack MacLeod's father lived at Neudorf . Dad opened an office where he did work of an actuary. Later he became municipal Sec. which he combined with his own business. After renting, dad bought a home, a six room cottage.

At one point Dad bought a half section of farmland at Southey, 90 miles away. It had no buildings and was unbroken. He hoped to make money by resale. We used to take annual trips by car to check on the progress. He spent money on breaking part of it, building graineries, seed, grain and finally a house. He rented it to neighbouring farmers, who cheated the grain rightfully his share, had graineries moved off his property by dishonest renters etc. all because of not being close enough to be able to check. He sold it but the new owners sold the grain and skipped the country to the States. Mother was still getting money from the farm when she first came to Sault Ste. Marie. Dad often said he should have let it go after the down payment of $500. He could have bought at Neudorf instead that was talked into it by her first cousin of Mother's Beebly by name.

Life at Neudorf was pleasant but quiet. We skated in the winter. Dad curled. Summers were spent at three excellent tennis courts, a very attractive club. We entertained outside clubs and were entertained in return. Dad was in excellent player but mother wasn't up to it. We used to exchange Sunday dinners with the Boyces. Mr. Boyce was the C. P. R. Station agent at Neudorf. Edythe was born there in 1914. Dad did much for the Red Cross during the war. We use to enjoy Sunday drives to the Qu'Appelle Valley with friends.

Notes for Jean Evelyn Vanderburgh:
Obituary is written by Douglas Hyde

For Grandma, Jean Evelyn Douglas. My Grandma smiled at me. I came to see her in late July, a few weeks ago, on a warm sunny day, my mom and I, and there she sat, watching her lunch at the Davey home, rather than eating it, dozing really, and my mom gently shook her, told her I was here, and she turned after a few moments, a question on her face, and she smiled at me, gave me the most beautiful smile she has ever given me. Smiles like that one where were a rare thing with my grandma -- periodic blossoms on a thorny rose, beautiful, just beautiful.

My grandma, Jean Evelyn Douglas, born Jean Evelyn Vanderburgh, in Toronto in 1906. At the age of four, she moved west to Neudorf, Saskatchewan with her family and her new young sister Margaret, where a few years later her younger sister Edythe was born. She lived in Neudorf from age 4 to 15, enjoying a peaceful, quiet life with tennis in the summers -- you may have seen pictures today, of her with her three sisters, a smile on her face. She lived in Neudorf until 1922, when she moved to Grenfell and lived with her aunt MacLeod to finish grades 10, 11 and 12 -- her father took her there with a horse and cutter. Upon finishing grade school, she then moved to Regina to attend "Normal School" - teachers College -- she lived with another aunt and uncle during her stay there.

It was in the summer of 1970. I am only six years old, and I cuddled with my grandma, after swimming in Horseshoe Bay, a towel and her arms wrapped around me. We are headed in for hot dogs and ice cream, to sit on the yellow benches, and not to move around too much. The sky is a beautiful red, and aunt Margaret holds my sister -- we are both shivering. My grandma's hug feels nice, and I like the feeling of her rough curly hair on my neck. She turns me around and gives me an honest open smile. I smile back.

When she finished teachers College in Regina, grandma taught for several years in were rural Saskatchewan, at Pleasant Forks, and then attended university as a statue in for one year, taking second-year arts. She then taught at Learnberg for three years, where she met my grandfather Cecil Douglas, who also taught there for a year. Cecil was teaching and working in alternate years to put himself through university. She taught for five years at Dundurn, Saskatchewan while Cecil worked to finish university. They dated for seven years, and were engaged on April 26, 1936 on the banks of the Saskatchewan River. They were married on September 19, 1936 and the Neudorf United Church. I know my grandma wore her wonderful warm smile that day.

It is the summer of 1977. My grandma and I were working on her yard - it is a beautiful day. She is very direct with me, about what she wants and when she wants it done. She walks around the yard, pointing at things she wants done, and then as I work, she is very quick to point out how I can do it better. Disagreeing isn't really an option, just a smile from me, and I turned to focus on it -- seems like the best strategy to me. She leaves me feeling, well a bit anxious to get it done and done well. I am left with the not so good impression that having her angry with me would not be a good thing. I work away, a sweat breaking out as I weed and hoe, and help make her vision for the garden come true -- she is a very powerful person, I think to myself, and I both appreciate and am afraid of her strong sense of independence, and are clearly stated opinions. As I pause briefly, leaning against the wooden handle of the whole, I turned to see her bending over, on one knee, tending to the roses, her rose garden, careful not to perk her hands, wearing gloves. She watches me watching her, and I quickly turned back to work. I see her rise, and a few minutes later, she is back outside, with these little round shortbreads, melting moments, pink icing in the middle, and now look, inviting me to sit and take a break. We talk a bit about roses, about the past, and I tell her I think her garden is beautiful, and she gives another one of those rare and wonderful smiles. A brief moment of sharing together.

Following their wedding in 1936, grandma and my grandfather Cecil moved to Indian Head, where they lived in a three room apartment, with furniture purchase from money they received from their fathers. The next year, Cecil was off to graduate school, and they lived in a furnished apartment in Saskatoon, returning to Indian Head in the summer. My grandma helped Cecil tally his research results while sitting under the maple trees, pregnant -- Bruce was born that fall, 1938. Cecil worked at the Forest Insect Laboratory, in the love, and that year, they lived a normal family life. Cecil completed his oral examination in November. War was declared in the fall of 1939, Cecil enlisted in the fall of 1940, but wasn't called until January 1941 when he went to Rivers Manitoba to train the in navigation as a commissioned pilot officer. Donna was born that spring. Cecil was then posted in Regina, and my grandma remained here until the fall of 1942 when Cecil was posted to Winnipeg. They rented a furnished bungalow on a Woodlawn Avenue and Joan was born just after Christmas, 1943. Grandpa would cycle home from the base where he was busy giving navigation training. In November 1943, grandpa navigated a Dakota plane from Québec to Scotland, via Iceland, returning two months later on a liberator via the Azores. It was a lonely Christmas.

After moving several times while in Winnipeg, Cecil returned to his position at the Insect Laboratory at Indian Head to be informed that he was to be transferred to Sault Saint Marie in early 1946. So once again, grandma was left to pack up everything including the children, and moved to the Sault. By my count, this was at least the 12th time they had moved in the eight years they had been married. The family lived at 167 Pine St. for the first summer, and finally ended up at 31 Coulson Ave. wear the family spent a happy few months until on August 16 of 1949 Cecil was killed in an accident.

It is the summer of 1990. My wife Jill and I are at Lady Evelyn Smoothwater Wilderness Park -- a strange irony in this name -- north of North Bay, Ontario, near Temegami, paddling our canoe along a reservoir, a beautiful lake by glorious summer day. We hadn't really planned to come to this place, instead we had wanted to visit the notorious Red Squirrel Road, where the demonstrations against clear cutting of old growth pine forests were taking place. The road hadn't closed however to public traffic, and Jill and I headed further north, and decided to paddle into Lady Evelyn. I felt strangely drawn to this beautiful place, only to find out years later from my grandma, that this place is where my grandfather fell, and was injured, an injury that led to his death in Toronto.

I think for those who know her, this moment was Keystone in her life. And it's worth brief reflection, for it speaks deeply about my grandma, and how I see her.

When I was a youngster, I was, well, uncomfortable being with her -- it wouldn't have called her a soft person, although the softness was there sometimes, on occasion. She was very direct in social situations. And I have often wondered about the two of them, my grandma and grandpa, together. Although I asked occasionally about it, she didn't speak much about him, as I think it was too painful for her -- tears came quickly to her eyes.

My grandma was always an independent minded person, very opinionated, and from what I can tell, Cecil was an adventurous spirit, a person who was committed to himself, determined to create a better life for himself and his family. A powerful combinatio and I think they were much in love with each other. I wonder at the frustration of having lived a life for shared moments together, and moments apart, always in transition, always moving. I suspect this leads to a powerful sense of appreciation for each other, and strengthened rather than diminished their love. And as I have matured, I have come to see that the prickly part of my grandmother, the thorns on the rose, where her way of hiding the beautiful sensitive person inside, a person who was always firm, the giving, who strove for stability and security when I knew her, after living a life of constant turmoil and change.

She remained committed to Cecil her whole life, despite the fact that even a marriage vow is broken in death. To all who knew her, she was an indomitable spirit, and I think this spirit, and her power to choose and stick to her choices, carried her through the years, both with and without Cecil. And I wonder if I have such strength, to love, and have lost this love, just when life was settling down -- my grandma must have felt incredibly cheated, her heart broken -- I can't imagine the pain she must have felt when she lost her husband, her friend, her partner. And to have continued with life, determined, willing and committed inside to doing it on her own. Sometimes experiences teach us to trust others no longer. And by doing it on her own, she couldn't be hurt as easily. A sensitive heart once broken is not likely to be broken again.

For the next few years following Cecil's death, grandma worked at the insect lab, and then she returned to teaching -- she taught at Frances H Clergue for 10 years, winning trophies with her classes in local music festivals, and then for nine years as Queen Elisabeth school. She built, with her son Bruce, a cottage at Horseshoe Bay and greatly enjoyed the quiet of this place with her sister Margaret. At first, her kids spend time there, socializing with good friends, and then later her grand children. The cottage is there today and we continue to enjoy visits to this place. She became a world traveler, and I have counted at least 23 countries in the passports I have here -- this always seemed to be important to her and perhaps a bit out of character even, for stability was important, and I often wonder if she and my grandpa Cecil talked about traveling. As she grew older she enjoyed bridge, participating in church activities, and family, particularly family.

It is 1968. I am back for Christmas from University and we are at my aunt Joan's for birthday dinner, grandma's birthday. She sits very regal in a chair, usually by herself, and even my father's not so gentle teasing pricked her, as he tosses her a roll from the head of the table -- it was easier to smile and these things, then to get angry. Then we retired to the living room where she opened her gifts. When we are all distracted, she turns to and Margaret to say something, and from her face, I can tell she is being opinionated again. Periodically she barks a command at Andrea, about being a lady, and aunt Joan quickly jumps to defend, feathers briefly ruffled. The giftgiving continues, everyone shuffles in their seats, and the awkwardness passes, the noise in the room rises. I always found it was at the most sensitive moments that the thorns would show themselves. Only when you got her alone would they disappear. Later she walks around the room giving hugs of thanks, not because she really wants to but because we all expected. She smiles for everyone this time, one by one, and says thank you as she and Margaret head for home.

Grandma lived at 31 Coulson Ave. until a year ago, independent as always. As of last summer, above the age of 90, she was still driving her car. Independent, intelligent, willful, strong, committed -- these were the things that covered her care, love and sensitivity. But what a combination. The last year has been tough, in an out of Hospital, the Davey home, and still fiercely determined to go home. And yet she never did.

So, I have come to see how important she has been in my life not for what she said and did, but for who she has been. She made her choices, and we each make our own -- the relationship she and I shared has helped me to come to terms with the choices I had to make in my life, why I have made them, who I have become. Some of who she was, I have also chosen to be, and some I have chosen not to be. She has taught me about integrity, discipline, order. By her own choices, she has forced me to think about the meaning of love and commitment. In the end, there are things we have done the same, and many things I have done differently. I guess I feel we all have the power to choose how someone else affects our life, and only when we have tried to be them, to walk in their shoes, we can understand and appreciate. Her life has moved powerfully in my own, I think we can see this, some more than others, and appreciate.

So thank you grandma, thank you for what you have given me, for what you have given all of us. I know it was time for you to go but I also know we will all miss you. And goodbyes are never perfect, so please keep in touch through our prayers. And smiles for us,, smiles for us all. And our smiles will be for you grandma, my smiles are for you, and so will our tears. You will be in our hearts always.

generations. As our Grandmother's, as she would say "favourite, oldest, grandson", I asked all the other, " favourite grand children" for a word to describe our Grandmother. These words linked together pay honour to the life that is no more,

From deep within the hole that once was the space my grandmother filled perseverance springs forth, and we celebrate the joy of having been so lucky as to have had a chance to share some time with Florence Edythe Vanderburgh Cram.

A lady who taught us many things; like serve from the left clear from the right; which may not be the stuff that seems at all too important but manners are, and they are because they show respect for your fellow man. And Grandma was the Queen of Manners. When I was very young I considered her to be the Queen of Cobalt. When we drove down the streets in the Volkswagen beetle or the orange speed car, it felt as though she was the center of the world, everyone knew her and everyone loved her. It has always been an honour to be with her, to be seen out with her made a person feel elevated, respected.

What she was not however was lofty, she was always full of acceptance. Acceptance for each person she met. She took them for what they were and always celebrated what they had to offer -- this did not mean that she agreed or even pretended to agree with everyone else's opinion or actions. What she did try to do was ensure that each person was allowed their dignity.

Grandma was a brilliant woman, a lady who was always ahead of her time. She did not ask us to follow the rules of the world but rather demanded that we set our own rules and the live by them. Respect your fellow man, let every one shine in their own way, and expect little in return for what you give. For if you give with expectation and then you really are not giving at all. And be proud, be proud of your accomplishments and what you learned from your failures.

And grandma was proud, she had many challenges set before her but her head remained squarely set on her shoulders. This is perhaps why when you were with her you too felt proud and perhaps, majestic even -- for you knew no matter what was said or done that she would always show acceptance and love.

In the Christmas movie, It's a Wonderful Life, there is a scene where we learn that each time a bell rings it means an angel has received its wings. Grandma went through life giving angel's wing's -- or at least I believe this to be true because of those earrings. The hearings that are the silver bells, the bells that always rung. I loved those earrings and I loved her round face and sparkling eyes.

On behalf of all her favourite grandchildren; Sean, Alex, Jennifer, Sarah, John, Melanie, Sarah, myself Christopher, and the favorite great-grand child Stuart, our memories live on with thoughts that a piece of each of us has gone away, but we have all gained far more than we have lost.

John Norsworthy Cram<sup>371-372</sup> lived in 342 Central Ave, Swift Current, Saskatchewan, Canada in 1916<sup>371-372</sup>. He lived in Bachelor of Science, Univ of Saskatchewan in 1935<sup>373</sup>. He was employed as a Bachelor of Engineering (Chem), Univ of Saskatchewan in 1937. He lived in Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan in 1940. He lived in Kingston, Ontario - during the WWII in 1941. He lived in Toronto, Ontario between 1947-1948. He lived in Deloro, Ontario between 1950-1961<sup>374</sup>. He lived in Cobalt, Ontario between 1960-1985 (Refinery Townsite). He lived in Indian Head, Saskatchewan. In his 30's he became greatly depressed, and never really recovered. He grew to become reclusive and his untimely end was made more unpleasant for all due to the fact the family had no idea he had passed away until he was discovered approximately one month after his death (he had not been in communication with family for some time).

Alan's ashes were scattered into the Montreal River (the same place some of his father's ashes were placed), on the site of a log cabin he built as a teenager across the river from the Cram home on the Montreal River and some are with his mother.

Generation 1

1. CAMPBELL<sup>1</sup> was born in 1755 in Killeen, Clare, Ireland. He married CAMPBELL. She was born in 1759 in Killeen, Clare, Ireland.

Campbell and Campbell had the following child:

- i. MATHEW<sup>2</sup> CAMPBELL was born in 1781 in Armagh, Ireland<sup>1</sup>. He died on 29 Apr 1829 in Ireland. He married BARBARA IRISH.

Notes for Mathew Campbell:

From a letter dated July 1 1944, which I do not know the author but it is on onion paper like my Grandmother Edythe Cram always used. I suspect she typed it from something from a Campbell family member. It reads:

Campbell Clan

The Campbell Clan of Scotland held as their ancestral home the portion of the Highlands of Scotland lying on the west coast just north of Glasgow. There were recognized as one of the most powerful, aggressive and cunning of all the Scottish clansmen. Being separated from Ireland by only a narrow channel, it was natural that many Scotsmen would migrate there especially since it was the declared policy of successive rulers of Ireland to fill up the northern part with industrious Protestant settlers. Just when our ancestors migrated from Scotland to Ireland we have no record but we can well believe it would be in the 17th or 18th century. We have no record of the parents of those who came to Canada. Some suggested the Napoleonic Wars, that is after 1815, was a time of great hardship for the common people of the British Isles but more particularly for the Irish. Potatoes had become the one staple food for the poor people of Ireland so it was no wonder that some of the enterprising aggressive Campbells should look with eager eyes across the Atlantic for relief.

The first to venture forth was Robert, the oldest of the family, so far as we know, and was born about 1800. He came to Canada about 1824 from County Armagh to work digging the first Welland Canal. After a few years, the thrifty young Irishman had saved enough money to buy a farm near Bond Head (Ontario). In 1856, he married Amelia Long and together they raised a large family of five boys and five girls.

The second boy of the family to come to Canada was William, commonly known as Billy, born in 1801. There is some uncertainty about the date of his arrival in Canada and whether he was out here before the 1837 rebellion or not. Our information is that he did not come out until 1838 or 1840. He is said to have arrived in New York and straightway enquired of a New Yorker if he knew his brother Bob. "Bob who" was the reply. "Bob Campbell why he as a big farm of 200 acres up in Tecumseh Township" "Where's that ?" was the answer of the stranger. And thereupon Uncle Billy showed his disgust of the American by saying " Aw Shaw, you fellows know naething." Billy remained throughout his long life (he died in 1886) the wit of the family. Upon reaching his brother Bob's (and by the way, the three younger brothers and the three girls who came to this country all went straight to Bob's farm - he fathered them and fed them until they got started on their own. ) Billy located on the 14th of Tecumseh, and for a good many years a little church called "Campbell's Church" stood on the corner of the farm. He married Jane Thompson. The six sons born to them are as follows (see file)

The third boy of the family was James and there is no record of when he arrived. He was here during the 1837 rebellion for when Robert and Mathew went away to put down the rebellion, the women folk begged to have Jamie stay with them. A few years later he was killed at the Whiteside's barn raising and was buried in Middletown Cemetery between Bradford and Bond Head. He was never married.

the fourth and youngest of the four boys was Mathew. He was born about 1811 and came to Canada on or about 1835. He married Lovina Woods, daughter of Irish settlers and settled on the 16th of Tecumseh, about two miles west of Cookstown. He had eleven children (see file).

Descendants of William Campbell

Generation 1

1. WILLIAM<sup>1</sup> CAMPBELL<sup>1-5</sup> was born in 1801 in Armagh, Northern Ireland<sup>3-6</sup>. He died on 26 Jan 1885 in Holly, Simcoe County, Ontario, Canada<sup>2</sup>. He married Mary Jane Thompson in 1839. She was born in 1806 in Ireland<sup>7-9</sup>. She died on 26 May 1890 in Bradford, Simcoe County, Ontario, Canada<sup>8</sup>.

William Campbell<sup>1-5</sup> was buried on 27 Jan 1885 in Barrie, Simcoe County, Ontario, Canada (Barrie Union Cemetery This is internment date, from cem' records<sup>1</sup>).

Notes for William Campbell:

In approximately 1824 or 1827 (1827 per notes from Jennie Vanderburgh) came from Ireland (left from Sligo Bay) and settled on the 14th Concession of Tecumseth on a farm which became known as "Shady Grove". Married Jane Thompson in Canada. There is also a note in my files that Wm Campbell came from Ireland in 1827 and first settled in the USA and then moved in 1840 to Con of Tecumseth, Simcoe Co.

On the corner of their farm was a Church, known as Campbell Church.

Campbell History, hand written note by Jennie (nee Campbell) Vanderburgh, note not dated (copy of this note is with Wendy (nee Cram) Lyons:

In 1865 they moved to the 12th line, Lot 2 of Innisfel. Mr. William Campbell Sr. died Jan 26 1885 and wife Jane Thompson died in 1890. His son Thompson took over the farm. He married Harriett Dyer their children Florence (Mrs. Ferguson), Jane (Mrs G Vanderburgh), Charles and Reta, and Thompsons wife died 1950. Their son Charles and his wife Lucy Robson are now on the farm.

1861 Census William and Jane are alone (none of children here) which adds up as I have found Robert Campbell in another area and all the siblings are with him.

In the 1861 census with Robert the places of birth show and this is helpful as it is starting to sort things out.

Robert age 3..?? is born in Ireland

Matthew age 24 or 29 is hard to read but could be UC Upper Canada

George age 17 in UC

Thompson age 15 or 13 in UC

William age 10 in UC

female whos name I cannot make out but looks like it starts with a F and could be Fanny age 15 born in Ireland - this does not add up

John Stinder (??) age 18 born in Ireland

James Campbell born in Ireland

Mary Jane Thompson<sup>8</sup> was buried on 28 May 1890 in Barrie, Ontario, Canada (Barrie Union Cemetery This is internment date, from cem' records).

Mrs Harriett Campbell of Holly has many guests on 90th Birthday

On Friday afternoon July 11, 1947, Mrs. Harriett Campbell of Holly was "At Home" to her friends at the old homestead on the occasion of her 90th birthday. During the afternoon about fifty guests came to pay their respects and she entertained them by relating stories of her early childhood, showed family relics, and played and sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul" on one of the original organs in the community. After this tea was served and Mrs. Campbell cut her birthday cake. Mrs. C. H. Beelby poured tea. Mrs. Campbell is the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dyer, one of the original families to settle in Holly, and married the late Thompson Campbell in 1877. She came as a bride to her present home where she lives with her son Charles.

During the past 90 years Mrs. Campbell has seen many changes. In her early childhood this county was forest and the only means of transportation was by oxen.

Despite her advanced age Mrs. Campbell enjoys good health and takes keen interest in radio news broadcasts and other programs.

Mrs. C's husband passed away 35 years ago. There are four children by this marriage. Florence (the late Mrs. John. S. Ferguson of Stroud); Jennie, (Mrs. George E. Vanderburgh, Indian Head Sask.); Charles T with whom she lives on the homestead and Miss Rita M. Campbell of Ottawa. She has six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Among the guests were friends from Regina, Ottawa, Toronto, Huntsville, Barrie, Stoud and Thornton. She received many cards from other friends who were unable to be with her on the happy occasion.

and her youth

George Vanderburgh was born a twin, taught school, teaching at Holly where he met mother [Jennie Campbell]. He wanted to become a doctor but finances weren't forthcoming and to further himself he went to business college at Collingwood. Following this he became a bookkeeper for a lumber company in Toronto. Here he had his first home built on 83 Brooklyn Avenue.

In the meantime mother took a dressmakers course in Toronto and made her own wedding dress. She and Dad were married in Holly Church where they were presented with a large family Bible. They honeymooned at Niagara Falls.

They lived in Toronto for nearly 5 years. Hearing the call to go West, he gave up his job, sold his home and went out to his sisters Jack and Florrie MacLeod in Grefell, Saskatchewan. Mother expecting Margaret took me and went up to her old home at Holly to wait until the baby arrived which was July.

Uncle Jack MacLeod's father lived at Neudorf . Dad opened an office where he did work of an actuary. Later he became municipal Sec. which he combined with his own business. After renting, dad bought a home, a six room cottage.

At one point Dad bought a half section of farmland at Southey, 90 miles away. It had no buildings and was unbroken. He hoped to make money by resale. We used to take annual trips by car to check on the progress. He spent money on breaking part of it, building graineries, seed, grain and finally a house. He rented it to neighbouring farmers, who cheated the grain rightfully his share, had graineries moved off his property by dishonest renters etc. all because of not being close enough to be able to check. He sold it but the new owners sold the grain and skipped the country to the States. Mother was still getting money from the farm when she first came to Sault Ste. Marie. Dad often said he should have let it go after the down payment of $500. He could have bought at Neudorf instead that was talked into it by her first cousin of Mother's Beebly by name.

Life at Neudorf was pleasant but quiet. We skated in the winter. Dad curled. Summers were spent at three excellent tennis courts, a very attractive club. We entertained outside clubs and were entertained in return. Dad was in excellent player but mother wasn't up to it. We used to exchange Sunday dinners with the Boyces. Mr. Boyce was the C. P. R. Station agent at Neudorf. Edythe was born there in 1914. Dad did much for the Red Cross during the war. We use to enjoy Sunday drives to the Qu'Appelle Valley with friends.

In Neudorf< SK, there is a street named after George Vanderburgh "Vanderburgh Lane".

George Edgerton Vanderburgh and Jennie Willalma Campbell had the following children:

20. i. JEAN EVELYN<sup>4</sup> VANDERBURGH was born on 23 Dec 1906 in Toronto, Ontario. She died on 04 Sep 1999 in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario. She was born on 23 Sep 1891 in Tps of Oro<sup>122</sup>. She died on 17 Aug 1972 in Barrie, Ontario.

Notes for Charles Talmadge Campbell:

Charles lived at Shady Grove all of his life, first as a child, then when his father died and his mother inherited the farm, and with his wife until his death. Charles and Lucy did not live a very happy life, according to Eydthe Cram (nee Vanderburgh) largely due to the fact that Harriett Dyer was very domineering and controlled the farm. Their only child, Lillian, died only two days after birth, this could certainly have done nothing more than to add to the couple's unhappy life. After Charles' death Lucy sold the farm, without contacting any family regarding this decision, the land on which the farm stood is now a subdivision on the edge of Holly, Ontario.

Notes for Elizabeth Meakes:

I know that many of the Meakes family went over to Canada to settle and I am finding it fascinating to try to track their lives and offspring etc!! My grandma, Phyllis, was one of the few who stayed in UK. I will do a bit of research and also question my mum who is 93 and is still very knowledgeable about who's who!! I think that actually they had 3 children, but will ask mum. The names are Marjorie and William but will need to clarify! Also I need to learn how to share info with you!! Will be back in touch soon. Regards, Sue

Notes for Jean Evelyn Vanderburgh:
Obituary is written by Douglas Hyde

For Grandma, Jean Evelyn Douglas. My Grandma smiled at me. I came to see her in late July, a few weeks ago, on a warm sunny day, my mom and I, and there she sat, watching her lunch at the Davey home, rather than eating it, dozing really, and my mom gently shook her, told her I was here, and she turned after a few moments, a question on her face, and she smiled at me, gave me the most beautiful smile she has ever given me. Smiles like that one where were a rare thing with my grandma -- periodic blossoms on a thorny rose, beautiful, just beautiful.

My grandma, Jean Evelyn Douglas, born Jean Evelyn Vanderburgh, in Toronto in 1906. At the age of four, she moved west to Neudorf, Saskatchewan with her family and her new young sister Margaret, where a few years later her younger sister Edythe was born. She lived in Neudorf from age 4 to 15, enjoying a peaceful, quiet life with tennis in the summers -- you may have seen pictures today, of her with her three sisters, a smile on her face. She lived in Neudorf until 1922, when she moved to Grenfell and lived with her aunt MacLeod to finish grades 10, 11 and 12 -- her father took her there with a horse and cutter. Upon finishing grade school, she then moved to Regina to attend "Normal School" - teachers College -- she lived with another aunt and uncle during her stay there.

It was in the summer of 1970. I am only six years old, and I cuddled with my grandma, after swimming in Horseshoe Bay, a towel and her arms wrapped around me. We are headed in for hot dogs and ice cream, to sit on the yellow benches, and not to move around too much. The sky is a beautiful red, and aunt Margaret holds my sister -- we are both shivering. My grandma's hug feels nice, and I like the feeling of her rough curly hair on my neck. She turns me around and gives me an honest open smile. I smile back.

When she finished teachers College in Regina, grandma taught for several years in rural Saskatchewan, at Pleasant Forks, and then attended university as a statue in for one year, taking second-year arts. She then taught at Learnberg for three years, where she met my grandfather Cecil Douglas, who also taught there for a year. Cecil was teaching and working in alternate years to put himself through university. She taught for five years at Dundurn, Saskatchewan while Cecil worked to finish university. They dated for seven years, and were engaged on April 26, 1936 on the banks of the Saskatchewan River. They were married on September 19, 1936 and the Neudorf United Church. I know my grandma wore her wonderful warm smile that day.

It is the summer of 1977. My grandma and I were working on her yard - it is a beautiful day. She is very direct with me, about what she wants and when she wants it done. She walks around the yard, pointing at things she wants done, and then as I work, she is very quick to point out how I can do it better. Disagreeing isn't really an option, just a smile from me, and I turned to focus on it -- seems like the best strategy to me. She leaves me feeling, well a bit anxious to get it done and done well. I am left with the not so good impression that having her angry with me would not be a good thing. I work away, a sweat breaking out as I weed and hoe, and help make her vision for the garden come true -- she is a very powerful person, I think to myself, and I both appreciate and am afraid of her strong sense of independence, and are clearly stated opinions. As I pause briefly, leaning against the wooden handle of the whole, I turned to see her bending over, on one knee, tending to the roses, her rose garden, careful not to perk her hands, wearing gloves. She watches me watching her, and I quickly turned back to work. I see her rise, and a few minutes later, she is back outside, with these little round shortbreads, melting moments, pink icing in the middle, and now look, inviting me to sit and take a break. We talk a bit about roses, about the past, and I tell her I think her garden is beautiful, and she gives another one of those rare and wonderful smiles. A brief moment of sharing together.

Following their wedding in 1936, grandma and my grandfather Cecil moved to Indian Head, where they lived in a three room apartment, with furniture purchase from money they received from their fathers. The next year, Cecil was off to graduate school, and they lived in a furnished apartment in Saskatoon, returning to Indian Head in the summer. My grandma helped Cecil tally his research results while sitting under the maple trees, pregnant -- Bruce was born that fall, 1938. Cecil worked at the Forest Insect Laboratory, in the love, and that year, they lived a normal family life. Cecil completed his oral examination in November. War was declared in the fall of 1939, Cecil enlisted in the fall of 1940, but wasn't called until January 1941 when he went to Rivers Manitoba to train the in navigation as a commissioned pilot officer. Donna was born that spring. Cecil was then posted in Regina, and my grandma remained here until the fall of 1942 when Cecil was posted to Winnipeg. They rented a furnished bungalow on a Woodlawn Avenue and Joan was born just after Christmas, 1943. Grandpa would cycle home from the base where he was busy giving navigation training. In November 1943, grandpa navigated a Dakota plane from Québec to Scotland, via Iceland, returning two months later on a liberator via the Azores. It was a lonely Christmas.

After moving several times while in Winnipeg, Cecil returned to his position at the Insect Laboratory at Indian Head to be informed that he was to be transferred to Sault Saint Marie in early 1946. So once again, grandma was left to pack up everything including the children, and moved to the Sault. By my count, this was at least the 12th time they had moved in the eight years they had been married. The family lived at 167 Pine St. for the first summer, and finally ended up at 31 Coulson Ave. wear the family spent a happy few months until on August 16 of 1949 Cecil was killed in an accident.

It is the summer of 1990. My wife Jill and I are at Lady Evelyn Smoothwater Wilderness Park -- a strange irony in this name -- north of North Bay, Ontario, near Temegami, paddling our canoe along a reservoir, a beautiful lake by glorious summer day. We hadn't really planned to come to this place, instead we had wanted to visit the notorious Red Squirrel Road, where the demonstrations against clear cutting of old growth pine forests were taking place. The road hadn't closed however to public traffic, and Jill and I headed further north, and decided to paddle into Lady Evelyn. I felt strangely drawn to this beautiful place, only to find out years later from my grandma, that this place is where my grandfather fell, and was injured, an injury that led to his death in Toronto.

I think for those who know her, this moment was Keystone in her life. And it's worth brief reflection, for it speaks deeply about my grandma, and how I see her.

When I was a youngster, I was, well, uncomfortable being with her -- it wouldn't have called her a soft person, although the softness was there sometimes, on occasion. She was very direct in social situations. And I have often wondered about the two of them, my grandma and grandpa, together. Although I asked occasionally about it, she didn't speak much about him, as I think it was too painful for her -- tears came quickly to her eyes.

My grandma was always an independent minded person, very opinionated, and from what I can tell, Cecil was an adventurous spirit, a person who was committed to himself, determined to create a better life for himself and his family. A powerful combinatio and I think they were much in love with each other. I wonder at the frustration of having lived a life for shared moments together, and moments apart, always in transition, always moving. I suspect this leads to a powerful sense of appreciation for each other, and strengthened rather than diminished their love. And as I have matured, I have come to see that the prickly part of my grandmother, the thorns on the rose, where her way of hiding the beautiful sensitive person inside, a person who was always firm, the giving, who strove for stability and security when I knew her, after living a life of constant turmoil and change.

She remained committed to Cecil her whole life, despite the fact that even a marriage vow is broken in death. To all who knew her, she was an indomitable spirit, and I think this spirit, and her power to choose and stick to her choices, carried her through the years, both with and without Cecil. And I wonder if I have such strength, to love, and have lost this love, just when life was settling down -- my grandma must have felt incredibly cheated, her heart broken -- I can't imagine the pain she must have felt when she lost her husband, her friend, her partner. And to have continued with life, determined, willing and committed inside to doing it on her own. Sometimes experiences teach us to trust others no longer. And by doing it on her own, she couldn't be hurt as easily. A sensitive heart once broken is not likely to be broken again.

For the next few years following Cecil's death, grandma worked at the insect lab, and then she returned to teaching -- she taught at Frances H Clergue for 10 years, winning trophies with her classes in local music festivals, and then for nine years as Queen Elisabeth school. She built, with her son Bruce, a cottage at Horseshoe Bay and greatly enjoyed the quiet of this place with her sister Margaret. At first, her kids spend time there, socializing with good friends, and then later her grand children. The cottage is there today and we continue to enjoy visits to this place. She became a world traveler, and I have counted at least 23 countries in the passports I have here -- this always seemed to be important to her and perhaps a bit out of character even, for stability was important, and I often wonder if she and my grandpa Cecil talked about traveling. As she grew older she enjoyed bridge, participating in church activities, and family, particularly family.

It is 1968. I am back for Christmas from University and we are at my aunt Joan's for birthday dinner, grandma's birthday. She sits very regal in a chair, usually by herself, and even my father's not so gentle teasing pricked her, as he tosses her a roll from the head of the table -- it was easier to smile and these things, then to get angry. Then we retired to the living room where she opened her gifts. When we are all distracted, she turns to and Margaret to say something, and from her face, I can tell she is being opinionated again. Periodically she barks a command at Andrea, about being a lady, and aunt Joan quickly jumps to defend, feathers briefly ruffled. The giftgiving continues, everyone shuffles in their seats, and the awkwardness passes, the noise in the room rises. I always found it was at the most sensitive moments that the thorns would show themselves. Only when you got her alone would they disappear. Later she walks around the room giving hugs of thanks, not because she really wants to but because we all expected. She smiles for everyone this time, one by one, and says thank you as she and Margaret head for home.

Grandma lived at 31 Coulson Ave. until a year ago, independent as always. As of last summer, above the age of 90, she was still driving her car. Independent, intelligent, willful, strong, committed -- these were the things that covered her care, love and sensitivity. But what a combination. The last year has been tough, in an out of Hospital, the Davey home, and still fiercely determined to go home. And yet she never did.

So, I have come to see how important she has been in my life not for what she said and did, but for who she has been. She made her choices, and we each make our own -- the relationship she and I shared has helped me to come to terms with the choices I had to make in my life, why I have made them, who I have become. Some of who she was, I have also chosen to be, and some I have chosen not to be. She has taught me about integrity, discipline, order. By her own choices, she has forced me to think about the meaning of love and commitment. In the end, there are things we have done the same, and many things I have done differently. I guess I feel we all have the power to choose how someone else affects our life, and only when we have tried to be them, to walk in their shoes, we can understand and appreciate. Her life has moved powerfully in my own, I think we can see this, some more than others, and appreciate.

So thank you grandma, thank you for what you have given me, for what you have given all of us. I know it was time for you to go but I also know we will all miss you. And goodbyes are never perfect, so please keep in touch through our prayers. And smiles for us,, smiles for us all. And our smiles will be for you grandma, my smiles are for you, and so will our tears. You will be in our hearts always.

Eulogy written by Christopher Ashby : I have had no idea where to start, to draw together a group of words or thoughts that somehow reflect and share my thoughts and feelings at this time. I am speaking on behalf of the next generations. As our Grandmother's, as she would say "favourite, oldest, grandson", I asked all the other, " favourite grand children" for a word to describe our Grandmother. These words linked together pay honour to the life that is no more,

From deep within the hole that once was the space my grandmother filled perseverance springs forth, and we celebrate the joy of having been so lucky as to have had a chance to share some time with Florence Edythe Vanderburgh Cram.

A lady who taught us many things; like serve from the left clear from the right; which may not be the stuff that seems at all too important but manners are, and they are because they show respect for your fellow man. And Grandma was the Queen of Manners. When I was very young I considered her to be the Queen of Cobalt. When we drove down the streets in the Volkswagen beetle or the orange speed car, it felt as though she was the center of the world, everyone knew her and everyone loved her. It has always been an honour to be with her, to be seen out with her made a person feel elevated, respected.

What she was not however was lofty, she was always full of acceptance. Acceptance for each person she met. She took them for what they were and always celebrated what they had to offer -- this did not mean that she agreed or even pretended to agree with everyone else's opinion or actions. What she did try to do was ensure that each person was allowed their dignity.

Grandma was a brilliant woman, a lady who was always ahead of her time. She did not ask us to follow the rules of the world but rather demanded that we set our own rules and the live by them. Respect your fellow man, let every one shine in their own way, and expect little in return for what you give. For if you give with expectation and then you really are not giving at all. And be proud, be proud of your accomplishments and what you learned from your failures.

And grandma was proud, she had many challenges set before her but her head remained squarely set on her shoulders. This is perhaps why when you were with her you too felt proud and perhaps, majestic even -- for you knew no matter what was said or done that she would always show acceptance and love.

In the Christmas movie, It's a Wonderful Life, there is a scene where we learn that each time a bell rings it means an angel has received its wings. Grandma went through life giving angel's wing's -- or at least I believe this to be true because of those earrings. The hearings that are the silver bells, the bells that always rung. I loved those earrings and I loved her round face and sparkling eyes.

On behalf of all her favourite grandchildren; Sean, Alex, Jennifer, Sarah, John, Melanie, Sarah, myself Christopher, and the favorite great-grand child Stuart, our memories live on with thoughts that a piece of each of us has gone away, but we have all gained far more than we have lost.

John Norsworthy Cram was employed as a Bachelor of Engineering (Chem), Univ of Saskatchewan in 1937.

Notes for John Norsworthy Cram:

John's ashes are scattered in the Montreal River (near the family's Cobalt home), at the Miners Hilltop graveyard in Cobalt and some remain with his loving wife so they may be reunited again.

Notes for Alan Murray Cram:

Alan had a life that was best stated as being full of complete ups and/or downs. He was a fun loving child that was great in many outdoor sports but his finest achievements were in ice hockey. He was approached but refused a draft for the National Hockey League. He studied and obtained his BA in English and a teaching certificate.

In his 30's he became greatly depressed, and never really recovered. He grew to become reclusive and his untimely end was made more unpleasant for all due to the fact the family had no idea he had passed away until he was discovered approximately one month after his death (he had not been in communication with family for some time).

Alan's ashes were scattered into the Montreal River (the same place some of his father's ashes were placed), on the site of a log cabin he built as a teenager across the river from the Cram home on the Montreal River and some are with his mother.

Chances are, if you've had a radio on today you've heard his guitar playing. As one of North America's go-to guitarists, Sean Ashby has played and recorded with Sarah McLachlan, Delerium, Ginger (former Grapes Of Wrath), and many more. Ashby, is a singer /songwriter/guitarist/producer who released his debut album "Brass and Gold" on Black Sparrow/Universal in April of 2008.

Brass and Gold , Sean's first solo outing after 10 years as leader of the award winning band Jack Tripper, was an eclectic record which showcased an impressive musical palette. The album received favorable reviews in important Canadian publications such as Exclaim magazine and the Vancouver Province, and received airplay on college radio and across the country on CBC radio.

McLachlan's guitarist on the original Lilith Fair, as well as the Mirrorball and Afterglow albums , Ashby appeared with her on "Just Like You (Cats In The Cradle)" for D from Run DMC's solo CD. Also with Sarah, he received two 4 x platinum US discs and one diamond Canadian disc for studio and live CD's. Sean's guitar playing has appeared on CD's with sales in excess of 10 million copies worldwide... so far.

When asked about his hopes for his solo future Sean says " I am working at building an audience for my music, playing shows and improving as a songwriter and performer." Since Brass and Gold's release in 2008, Sean has been touring relentlessly, performing over 200 shows a year across Canada and the US, and somehow squeezing in two tours with Delirium as well. He's making new fans , and being asked to return everywhere he goes. His current album "24 Hours of Daylight" , showcases Sean's guitar skills and earthy vocals on a new set of strong tunes with a rootsy bent. This record also features his amazing
